

Contents

	Acknowledgments	ix
1	“To Live Here You Have to Know How to Live”	3
2	“Now You Know What It’s Like”: Ethnography in a State of (In)security	34
3	A Familiar Hillside and Dangerous Intimates	67
4	Tubarão and Seu Lázaro’s Dog: Drug Traffickers and Abnormalization	104
5	“The Men Are in the Area”: Police, Race, and Place	137
6	Conclusion: “It Was Here That Estela Was Shot”	165
	Notes	179
	References	185
	Index	197