

Contents

Preface	ix
Chronology	xi
Introduction	1
Polemics, Caveats, and Standpoints	3
Organization of the Book	5
1 The Enlightenment and Anthropology	9
Early Enlightenment Thought	10
The New Anthropology of the Enlightenment	15
The Institutionalization of Anthropology	23
2 Marx's Anthropology	39
What are Human Beings?	41
History	51
Truth and Praxis	57
3 Human Natural Beings	65
Charles Darwin and the Development of Modern Evolutionary Theory	67
Human Natural Beings: Bodies That Walk, Talk, Make Tools, and Have Culture	74
Marx on the Naturalization of Social Inequality	87
4 History, Culture, and Social Formation	91
Marx's Historical-Dialectical Conceptual Framework	93
Pre-Capitalist Societies: Limited, Local, and Vital	105
5 Capitalism and the Anthropology of the Modern World	117
The Transition to Capitalism and its Development	119
The Articulation of Modes of Production	128
Property, Power, and Capitalist States	138

6	Anthropology for the Twenty-First Century	145
	Social Relations and the Formation of Social Individuals	147
	Anthropology: "The Study of People in Crisis by People in Crisis"	158
	Notes	173
	Bibliography	181
	Index	219