

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Bibliography	9
2	What Reconciling Means	11
2.1	From the Ground up: Returning to a Local Perspective	14
2.2	On Observation...	17
2.3	... and on Comparison	20
	Bibliography	25
3	On Compensation	29
3.1	Compensation (Blood Money) in Anthropology	32
3.2	The Invention of "Customary Laws" and Blood Money	36
3.3	A Law in Evolution or the Evolution of Law?	41
	Bibliography	46
4	Compensation in North Africa	49
4.1	The Diya	51
4.2	The Evolution and Adaptation of the Diya	57
	Bibliography	65
5	Punishing Crime	69
5.1	On the Concept of Crime in Social Anthropology	70
5.2	Crimes and Punishment	73
5.3	Perception of Crime: On Intentionality	76

5.4	On Intentionality in Exceptional Circumstances:
	Armed Conflict	78
	Bibliography	83
6	Repairing Crime	87
6.1	Universality and Degrees of Reparation	91
6.2	Compensation, Reparation, and Morality	97
6.3	Compensation... and Overlooking Individual Guilt
	and Responsibility	100
	Bibliography	104
7	States and Mediators: Towards a New Reparation Paradigm	107
7.1	States and Mediators: Coercive Logics	108
7.2	A New Paradigm of Reparation? Individuals, Persons, and Trauma	116
7.3	How Can Trauma Be Compensated?	120
	Bibliography	122
8	Conclusion	125
8.1	Expanding the Question: Death, forgiveness, and Dignity	129
	Bibliography	133
	Index	135