

Table of Contents

List of Abbreviations	xv
Introduction: Citizenship—Probe into a History of Europe	1
1. Diversity and Demarcation: National and Imperial Citizenship Policy around 1900	15
1. An Institution of Closed Statehood: Citizenship in the German Empire	22
2. Nationalization through Territoriality: Citizenship in France	29
3. A Fragmented Status: Subjecthood in the Russian Tsarist Empire	39
4. Territorial Hierarchy: "Subjecthood" in the British Empire	50
2. Confrontation and Conflict: Citizenship in the Struggle for Political Belonging—The First World War (1914–1918)	60
1. The Limits to Equality: National Communities of Defence in Total War	60
2. Deprivation of Rights, Extension of Rights: Enemy Aliens and Citizens	71
3. Nationalization and Ethnicization: Citizenship Rights between Democracy and the Racial State (1918–1945)	85
1. Minority Rights and Citizenship in International Law	89
2. National Citizenship Policy	106
3. Citizenship Rights between Constitutional Democracy and Dictatorship	129
4. Border Control Regimes and the Crisis of State Sovereignty	162
5. The Second World War: Exclusion and Colonization in the Racial State	169
4. Conquest and Subjugation: Hierarchies of Citizenship Rights between Colonization and Decolonization (1900–1950)	183
1. From Imperial Subjects to National Citizens: The British Empire	184
2. Indigenous Subjects of the Republic: The Empire Français	195
3. From "Natives" to " Untermenschen ": German Colonial Empires	206
4. Subjects, Soviet Citizens, and Enemy Aliens: Status Barriers in Russian Colonialism	214

5. Liberalization and Community Ties: Citizenship in Divided Post-war Europe (1945–1989)	225
1. Reorganizing the Post-war World: Forced Migration, Citizenship, and Human Rights (1945–1950)	229
2. The Development of Citizenship Rights in Divided Europe: Decolonization, Welfare State, and Migration (1950–1970)	268
3. Loosening the Bonds of the National Community: Human Rights and Citizenship from the Cold War to the European Turn (1970–1989)	305
6. Integrating Europe and Demarcating States: Towards the Europeanization of Belonging? (1989–2020)	338
1. Constitutional Revolution and Citizenship Rights Since the 1990s	338
2. Citizenship and Migration in a United Europe	362
3. European Citizenship: The Europeanization of Political Belonging?	388
Conclusion: Membership as Basis and Boundary for Protection, Equality, and Freedom	419
1. Key Findings	421
2. Citizenship in Broader Context	430
Bibliography	437
Index	513