

Contents

Preface	xi
Introduction	xiii

I	Trade in the Global Age	1
1	A New Epoch?	3
2	The Global Age: From a Skeptical South to a Fearful North	29
II	On the Mat: The Poverty of Protectionism	73
3	The Poverty of Protectionism	75
III	The Diminished Giant Syndrome: The Obsessive Search for "Fair Trade" and Reciprocity	93
4	The Diminished Giant Syndrome: How Declinism Drives Trade Policy	95
5	Hormones and Trade Wars	105
6	The Dangers of Selective Safeguards	109
7	Brie for Breakfast	113

8	Rough Trade	119
9	An Unhealthy Obsession with Reciprocity	133
IV	Aggressive Unilateralism: Playing at High Noon	139
10	Super 301's Big Bite Flouts the Rules	141
11	It's the Process, Stupid!	145
V	Japan on One's Mind: The Clintonites down the Precipice	149
	The Obsession
12	What Buchanan Owes Clinton	153
13	Trade Wars	155
14	Facing the Japanese Challenge	157
	Getting Japan Wrong
15	The Japanese—Not So Inscrutable to Adam Smith	165
16	The Fraudulent Case against Japan	169
17	On Boiling Frogs	175
18	Samurais No More	177
	Getting Trade Policy toward Japan Wrong
19	Japan Must Now Say No	189
20	Is This Showdown Necessary?	193
21	The U.S.-Japan Car Dispute: A Monumental Mistake	199

VI	The Folly of “Fair Trade before Free Trade”: Environment and Labor Standards	229
22	The Case for Free Trade	231
23	American Rules, Mexican Jobs	245
24	Trade Liberalisation and “Fair Trade” Demands: Addressing the Environmental and Labour Standards Issues	247
VII	Free Trade Areas Are Not Free Trade!	269
25	Let GATT Live	271
26	Why Ross Is Wrong	275
27	Beyond NAFTA: Clinton’s Trading Choices	279
28	Preferential Trade Agreements: The Wrong Road	289
29	The Watering of Trade	299
30	Threats to the World Trading System: Income Distribution and the Selfish Hegemon	303
VIII	Coping with Immigration	313
31	A Champion for Migrating Peoples	315
32	Behind the Green Card	319
33	Control Immigration at the Border	337
34	Sanctuary	343
35	Student Visas Drop Anchor	349

- 36 The U.S. Brain Gain—At the Expense of Blacks? 353
- 37 The False Alarm of “Too Many Scientists” 363
- 38 Free Trade Can Cut Health Costs 369
- 39 Bashing the Illegals 373
- IX Democracy and Its Contents 377
- 40 Democracy and Development: New Thinking on an Old Question 379
- 41 Better than Bloomsbury? 409
- 42 America Grows Roots Outside the Old Testament 417
- 43 Learning from the Religions of Others 421
- 44 Crisis Helps Advance Ideological Positions on Population Growth 423
- 45 Panic, Petulance, and Paranoia about Japan 425
- 46 “Agents of Influence”: An Exchange 429
- 47 Exclude the Exclusionary Rule 433
- 48 Recalling Orwell 437
- X In the Ring: With Soros, Wriston, Sachs, and Valenti 449
- 49 Wheel of Fortune 451
- 50 In the Market We Trust 457

51	Shock Treatments	463
52	Free Trade at the Movies Puts U.S. in New Role	477
XI	Economists and Economics	479
53	Remembering Harry G. Johnson	481
54	On Learned Journals in Economics	495
55	The End of All Our Exploring	501
56	A Machine for Going Backwards	507
	Illustration Credits	515
	Index	517