

CONTENTS

Chapter 1: The Terms of the Task	1
i. Ethics and religion in education ii. Global ethics and global ethos iii. Peace, ethics and religion Part One: Multiculturalism's Potential for Conflict Chapter 2: Violent and Nonviolent Religion	21
i. René Girard and the scapegoat mechanism ii. Violence and difference iii. Emmanuel Levinas and the ethic of the 'other' Chapter 3: The Paradox of Pluralism	45
i. Pluralism and conflict ii. Models for religious complementarity iii. Syncretism and the osmosis of religious discourse Chapter 4: The Antidote of Dialogue	63
i. From conversation to transformation ii. Relativism and Davidson's framework model iii. The 'forgotten other' in interreligious communication:
1. the feminine
2. the primal
3. the poor
iv. Encountering the stranger

Part Two: *Multiculturalism's Potential for Peace

Chapter 5: Towards An Interreligious Ethic	83
i. The 'embeddedness' of ethics in religion ii. Contextualising transcendence iii. Habermas and communicative consensus iv. Interreligious ethics as process Chapter 6: An Interreligious Ethic of Economic Justice	103
i. 'Development' as violence ii. Ethical traditions in religious contexts:
1. anthropocentric
2. cosmocentric
3. biocentric
iii. Economics in a Buddhist ethos Chapter 7: An Interreligious Ethic of Ecological Integrity	131
i. The emergence of ecological ethics ii. From animal rights to deep ecology iii. Hans Jonas and ecological responsibility iv. Religious Interaction and Global Transformation	