

Contents

Preface	xv
Acknowledgments	xvii
Abbreviations	xix

Introduction

1. The Transformation of Chinese Law in Context	1
2. Structure of the Present Study	3

Chapter One

Legal Culture, State Orthodoxy and the Modernisation of Law

1. Introduction	5
2. Legal Culture and Heritage	8
2.1. An Overview	8
2.2. Confucianism	10
2.3. Legalism	14
2.4. State Orthodoxy and Practice - the Confucianisation of Law	16
2.5. The Legacy of History	19
3. The Beginning of Modernisation - The Wholesale Westernisation of Chinese Law	23
3.1. Constitutional and Political Reform at Gunpoint	23
3.2. An Overview of the Reform	25
3.3. The Choice of Foreign Model	27
3.4. The Persistence of Conservatism	28
4. The Continuing Reform under the KMT - The Modernisation of Chinese Law	29
4.1. An Overview - the Continuity of Reform	29
4.2. Guiding Principles - San Min Zhu Yi	30
4.3. Between Westernisation and Modernisation of Chinese Law	33
5. Concluding Remarks	36

Chapter Two

Experience of Law in the PRC

1. Introduction	39
2. The Pre-PRC Communist Experience of Law	40
3. The Triumph of Ideology	44
4. Legal Experience under Mao's Leadership	46
5. Legal Experience in Post-Mao China	50
5.1. The Need for Law to Institutionalise and Generalise Ad Hoc Policies	50
5.2. The Need for 'Rational' Law for a Market Economy	54
5.3. Ruling the Country According to Law	62
6. After Ideology - Continuing Westernisation/Modernisation of Chinese Law	65
6.1. Legal Transplant and the Modernisation of Chinese Law	65
6.2. Using Foreign Law for Reference	66
6.3. Beyond Ideology: Globalisation and 'Rational' Law	70
6.4. Beyond Specific Western Models: Harmonisation with International Practice	73
7. Concluding Remarks	75

Chapter Three

Constitutional Law

1. Introduction	77
2. A Brief Historical Review	79
2.1. Constitutional Monarchy through Transformation v. Republic through Revolution - The Path and Pace of Reform	79
2.2. Presidential System v. Cabinet System - The Struggle for the Control of Government Powers	81
2.3. Centralism v. Federalism - The Struggle among the Warlords	82
2.4. Political Elitism and Party Ideology - The Distorted Version of Chinese Constitutionalism	83
3. The Search for Socialist Solutions with Chinese Characteristics	85
4. Constitutional Law in Present-day China	90
4.1. Development of the 1982 Constitution	90
4.2. Fundamental Principles	96
4.3. The Party System	106
4.4. People's Congress	112
4.5. The State Council	119
4.6. The Unitary System and Central-Local Relations	121
4.7. Fundamental Rights and Duties	129

4.8. Interpretation, Supervision and Enforcement	135
5. Concluding Remarks	144

Chapter Four

Legal Institutions

1. Introduction	147
2. An Overview of Legal Institutions in China	148
3. The People's Courts	150
3.1. Hierarchy and Organisation	150
3.2. Judges and Other Personnel of the People's Courts	152
3.3. Judicial Reforms	155
4. The People's Procuratorates	158
5. Other Government Institutions	161
6. The Legal Profession	162
7. Legal Education	167
8. Concluding Remarks	169

Chapter Five

Sources of Law and Law-Making

1. Introduction	171
2. A Changing Constitutional Framework for Law-Making	174
3. The Law on Law-Making	177
4. Substantive Issues	180
4.1. Integrity of the Legal System and Unity of Law	180
4.2. Questions Relating to Guizhang and Other Normative Documents	191
4.3. Role of the Communist Party	192
4.4. Supervision	195
4.5. Interpretation of Law	198
5. Procedural Issues	203
6. Concluding Remarks	205

Chapter Six

Administrative Law

1. Introduction	207
2. Historical Development of Administrative Law in China	209
3. Changing Conceptions of Administrative Law in Contemporary China	214

4. Administrative Decision Making and Reconsideration	223
4.1. The Concept of Administrative Acts	223
4.2. The Legal Framework	226
4.3. Procedural Requirements	228
4.4. Internal Review of Administrative Decisions	236
5. Administrative Supervision	242
5.1. Overview	242
5.2. Legal Mechanisms for Administrative Supervision	244
6. Administrative Litigation	246
6.1. Overview	246
6.2. Scope	247
6.3. Inter-relationship between Administrative Reconsideration and Litigation	250
6.4. Process	251
6.5. The Question of Guizhang	252
6.6. A Mixed Result	254
7. Administrative Liability	255
7.1. Overview	255
7.2. The Scope	256
7.3. The Process	257
8. Concluding Remarks	259

Chapter Seven

Criminal Law

1. Introduction	261
2. The 1979 Criminal Law and Its Development	262
3. General Principles	266
3.1. An Overview	266
3.2. Nullum Crimen, Nulla Poena Sine Lege and the Abolition of Analogy	267
3.3. Equality Before the Law and Marxism-Leninism-Mao Zedong Thought as a Guiding Ideology for Criminal Law	270
3.4. Proportionality ( Zuixing Xiang Shiyong )	272
3.5. 'White Collar' Crime - 'Unit Criminality' ( Danwei Fanzui )	274
3.6. Territorial and Extraterritorial Application	279
4. Crime and Punishment	280
4.1. An Overview	280
4.2. Counter-Revolutionary Crimes and Crimes against State Security	283
4.3. Crimes Endangering Public Security and Social Order	285
4.4. Crimes Undermining the Socialist Market Order and Economic Crimes	288

4.5. Crimes Endangering Personal Rights and Democratic Rights	290
4.6. Dereliction of Duty	291
4.7. Crimes Undermining the Interests of National Defence and Military Duties	291
4.8. Administrative Sanctions v. Criminal Punishments	292
4.9. The Death Penalty	294
5. Concluding Remarks	297

Chapter Eight

Criminal Procedure Law

1. Introduction	299
2. An Overview of the Major Deficiencies of the CPL	300
3. Major Changes in the 1996 Revision	302
3.1. An Overview	302
3.2. Preliminary Detention and 'Shelter and Investigation'	304
3.3. The Presumption of Innocence	310
3.4. Exemption from Prosecution	313
3.5. Right to Counsel	315
3.6. The Trial Process	318
4. Other Revisions	322
5. Concluding Remarks	322

Chapter Nine

Civil Law: Development and General Principles

1. Introduction	327
2. Historical Heritage of Civil Law in China	327
3. The Emergence of Modern Civil Law in the PRC	331
3.1. A Politico-Economic Context	331
3.2. The First Attempt at Codification in the PRC	332
3.3. The Second Attempt	333
3.4. The Third Attempt	334
3.5. Present Status of Civil Codification	336
4. An Abstract Conceptual Framework on Civil Matters	338
5. Civil and Commercial Law Institutions	341
5.1. Legal Personality	341
5.2. Property	356
5.3. Civil Law Obligations	357
6. Concluding Remarks	361

Chapter Ten

Civil Law: Property

1. Introduction	363
2. Property Rights in Traditional China and Modern Property Law under the KMT	364
3. Socialist Concepts and Conceptions of Property Rights in the PRC	366
3.1. An Overview	366
3.2. A Politico-Economic Concept of Property Rights	367
3.3. The System of Property Rights before the GPCL of 1986	368
3.4. The System of Property Rights under the GPCL	372
4. The New Rights in rent -	374
4.1. The Making of the Law on Rights in rent	374
4.2. The Law on Rights in rent	378
5. Concluding Remarks	388

Chapter Eleven

Civil Law: Family

1. Introduction	391
2. An Overview of the Traditional Family and Society	392
3. Historical Development of Family Law in Modern China	395
3.1. The Pre-1949 Modernisation of Family Law	395
3.2. The 1950 Marriage Law	399
3.3. The 1980 Marriage Law and Its Recent Reform	401
4. The Contemporary Legal Framework on Family Matters	408
4.1. An Overview	408
4.2. Marriage	409
4.3. Succession	412
4.4. Adoption	415
4.5. Family Planning	418
5. The Law as an Instrument for and in Response to Social Change	421
5.1. An Overview	421
5.2. Freedom of Marriage and Divorce	422
5.3. Extramarital Affairs	430
5.4. Property in Marriage and Divorce	437
5.5. Domestic Violence	439
6. Concluding Remarks	440

Chapter Twelve

Civil Law: Contracts

1. Introduction	443
2. The Development of Contract Law in the PRC	444
3. Present Legal Framework on Contracts	450
4. General Principles of the Contract Law	453
4.1. Equality of Parties	453
4.2. Freedom of Contract	454
4.3. Performance of Contract	457
4.4. Breach of Contract and Damages	458
5. Concluding Remarks	458

Chapter Thirteen

Law on Business Entities

1. Introduction	461
2. Business Entities in Transition	462
2.1 An Overview	462
2.2. The 'Individual Households' ( Getihu ) (the 'Two Households')	466
2.3. Private Enterprises ( Siying Qiye )	468
2.4. Collective Enterprises ( Jiti Qiye )	470
2.5. State-owned Enterprises (SOEs)	474
2.6. Joint Operation ( Lianying ) & Enterprise Groups ( Qiye Jituan )	474
2.7. Foreign-invested Enterprises (FIEs)	475
2.8. Rural Cooperatives	475
2.9. Towards a Modern Enterprise System	477
3. Individual Sole Investment Enterprises (Sole Proprietorship) ( Geren Duzi Qiye )	483
4. The Partnership Law	484
4.1. An Overview	484
4.2. The Partnership Enterprise Law	486
5. Company Law	491
5.1. An Overview	491
5.2. Structure and Scope of the Company Law	493
5.3. Limited Liability Companies	494
5.4. Companies Limited by Shares	497
5.5. Corporate Governance	499
6. Concluding Remarks	501

Chapter Fourteen

Securities Law

1. Introduction	503
2. Early Experiences and Their Politico-Economic Functions	504
3. The Coming of Age of the Securities Market and Its Regulation	513
4. Legal Framework	516
4.1. Primary National Legislation	517
4.2. Secondary Legislation: Administrative Regulations and Rules	519
5. Institutional Setting	520
5.1. Regulatory Authorities	520
5.2. Securities Companies	524
5.3. Securities Depository and Clearing Organisations	525
5.4. Securities Trading Services Organisations	526
5.5. Listed Companies	527
6. Issuing of Securities	528
6.1. The Changing System of Share Issuance	528
6.2. Types of Shares	530
6.3. The Mini Legal Framework	531
6.4. Information Disclosure	532
7. Trading of Securities	532
8. Special Rules on B-Shares	533
9. Legal Liabilities for Violations of the Securities Law	534
10. Concluding Remarks	535

Chapter Fifteen

Enterprise Bankruptcy Law

1. Introduction	537
2. A Historical Review of Bankruptcy Law in China	538
3. Current Legal Framework on Bankruptcy	546
4. Breakthrough, Compromise & Limitations	548
4.1. Scope of the Law & Transitional Arrangements for SOEs	548
4.2. Administration	553
4.3. Bankruptcy Property and Order of Priority	555
4.4. Alternatives to Bankruptcy	558
4.5. Financial Institutions	562
4.6. Cross-Border Bankruptcy	563
5. Concluding Remarks	563

Chapter Sixteen

Intellectual Property Law

1. Introduction	565
2. Rapid Development of the IP Market and Legal Framework on Protection	566
3. Trademarks	573
3.1. Legal and Administrative Framework	573
3.2. The Trademark System	574
3.3. Domain Names	578
4. Patents	581
4.1. Legislative and Administrative Framework	581
4.2. The Patent System	583
4.3. Layout Design in Integrated Circuits	585
4.4. New Varieties of Plants	587
5. Copyright	589
5.1. Legislative and Administrative Framework	589
5.2. The Copyright System	592
5.3. Audio Video Products	594
5.4. Computer Software	596
5.5. Computer Network Publications	598
6. Competition Law & Commercial Secrets	602
7. Implementation and Enforcement Mechanisms	604
7.1. Overview	604
7.2. Public Campaigns and Public Awareness	604
7.3. Internal Review and Administrative Sanctions	607
7.4. Customs Protection	609
7.5. Judicial Enforcement - Civil and Criminal Sanctions	612
8. Concluding Remarks	617

Chapter Seventeen

Foreign Trade and Investment Law

1. Introduction	621
2. A Process of Gradual Transformation	623
3. Law on Foreign Trade	626
3.1. Evolution of the Legal Regime Governing Foreign Trade	626
3.2. The Regulatory Framework	629
3.3. General Principles	631
3.4. Operational Mechanisms	634
3.5. Trade Barriers	635

4. Direct Foreign Investment	641
4.1. The Development of Foreign Investment Law and Policies	641
4.2. The Regulatory Framework	643
4.3. Equity Joint Ventures (EJVs)	645
4.4. Contractual (Co-operative) Joint Ventures (CJVs)	646
4.5. Wholly Foreign-owned Enterprises (WFOEs)	647
4.6. Foreign Investment in the Service Sectors	648
5. Concluding Remarks	650

Chapter Eighteen

Implementation of Law

1. Introduction	653
2. Implementation of Law - Its Nature and Complexity	654
3. Implementation of Law - the Case of IP Protection	656
4. Enforcement of Law - the Case of ' Zhixing Nan '	661
5. Enemies Within and Without, Systemic and Institutional	668
6. Politico-Legal Manoeuvres in the Battlefield	681
7. Contradictions in Reform and the Missed Target	686
7.1. Contradiction One: Politicisation v. Professionalisation	687
7.2. Contradiction Two: Judicial Independence v. Economic Fragmentation	688
7.3. Contradiction Three: Internal Efforts v. External Constraints	689
8. Concluding Remarks	690

Conclusion

1. Chinese Law Transformed	693
2. Towards a Rule of Law?	694
3. What's Next?	699

Select Bibliography

1. Sources of Chinese Law and Documents	703
2. Academic Works in Chinese	706
3. Academic Works in English	730

Index	745
-------	-----