Behavior in Organizations

Lyman W. Porter
University of California
Irvine

Edward E. Lawler III
University of Michigan

J. Richard Hackman
Yale University

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT EDITION

McGRAW-HILL KOGAKUSHA, LTD.

Tokyo Auckland Düsseldosf Johannesburg London Mexico
New Delhi Panama São Paulo Singapore Sydney

Contents

PREFACE xiii

PART ONE Individuals, Organizations, and Their Interaction

CHAPTER 1 Introduction 3

Some Recurring Themes in Organizational Behavior 15
Some Premises about Life in Organizations 25

CHAPTER 2 The Nature of Individuals 32

Views and Models of Man 32
Man Is Proactive 38
Man Is Social 38
Man Has Many Different Needs 40
Man Perceives and Evaluates 48
Man Thinks and Chooses 55
Man Has Limited Response Capabilities 61
Conclusions 65
Review and Discussion Questions 65

CHAPTER 3 The Nature of Organizations 67

Diversity of Viewpoints 67
Organizations Defined 68
The Composition of Organizations 71

The Orientation of Organizations: Toward Goals 78
The Methods of Organizations: Differentiated Functions 87
The Methods of Organizations: Intended Rational Coordination 93
Continuity of Organizations 96
Organizations as Social Systems 98
Review and Discussion Questions 100

CHAPTER 4 Behavior in Organizational Settings: The Interaction of Individuals and Organizations 102

A View of Individual–Organization Interaction 103
Implications for Personal and Organizational Effectiveness 109
Implications for Understanding Behavior within Organizations 115
A Model of Individual Performance in Organizations 120
Review and Discussion Questions 128

PART TWO The Development of Individual–Organization Relationships

CHAPTER 5 Choice Processes: Individuals and Organizations Attracting and Selecting Each Other 131

Attraction and Selection as Seen by Individuals and Organizations 131
Individuals Attracting Organizations 136
Individuals Choosing Organizations and Jobs 139
Organizations Attracting Individuals 142
Organizations Selecting Individuals 144
Organization–Individual Conflicts and Their Consequences for Selection 157
Review and Discussion Questions 158

CHAPTER 6 Adaptation Processes: Individuals and Organizations Learning to Accommodate to Each Other 160

Socialization 162
Individualization 170
The Situation When the New Employee Enters an Organization 172
The Critical Initial Employment Period 178
Course of Adaptation Process over Time 186
Review and Discussion Questions 187

CHAPTER 7 Developmental Processes: Individuals Developing Careers and Organizations Developing Individuals 188

People as Resources 189
Individuals Developing Careers 190
Organizations Developing Individuals 203
Career Development and Individual-Organization Integration 214
The Individual-Organization Linkage 216
Review and Discussion Questions 217

PART THREE Influences on Work Behavior: Structural Factors

CHAPTER 8 Organization Design: Context Factors 221

Factors Involved in the Design of Organizations 222
Societal Role 225
Environment 227
Technology 232
Human Resources 242
Review and Discussion Questions 245

CHAPTER 9 Organization Design: Structural Factors 247

Anatomical Dimensions 247
Operational Features 257
Impacts on Behavior 270
Review and Discussion Questions 273

CHAPTER 10 The Design of Work 274

Managerial Philosophies of Work Design 275
Current Issues in Work Design 282
Job Design and Internalized Work Motivation 298
The Design of Work and the Design of Organizations 306
Review and Discussion Questions 311

PART FOUR Influences on Work Behavior: Organizational Practices and Social Processes

CHAPTER 11 Evaluating Work Effectiveness 315

Organizational and Individual Goals in Performance Evaluation 316
Problems in Performance Evaluation 319
Factors Influencing the Outcomes of Performance Evaluations 324
Outcomes from the Appraisal Process: Conclusions 338
Review and Discussion Questions 339

CHAPTER 12 Rewarding Work Effectiveness 341

The Role of Extrinsic Rewards: The Organization's Perspective 342
The Role of Extrinsic Rewards: The Individual's Perspective 343
Reward Systems and Membership 344
Reward Systems and Attendance 349
Reward Systems and Job Performance 352
Reward Systems in Practice: A Compromise 364
Conclusion 366
Review and Discussion Questions 366

CHAPTER 13 Social Influences on Organization Members 368

The Nature of Discretionary Stimuli 370
Why Groups Initiate Discretionary Stimuli 371

The Impact of Discretionary Stimuli on Group Members 374
Direct Effects of Groups on Member Behavior: Group Norms 391
Conclusion 402
Review and Discussion Questions 402

CHAPTER 14 Social Influences on Work Effectiveness 403

Conditions within Groups That Moderate Their Impact on Work Effectiveness 404
Ways Groups Influence Individual Work Effectiveness 411
Leadership: A Particular Form of Social Influence 422
Review and Discussion Questions 434

PART FIVE Improving Organizational Effectiveness

CHAPTER 15 Methods of Organizational Change 437

Alternative Approaches for Initiating Change in Organizations 439
Changing Individuals 439
Changing Organizational Structures and Systems 446
Directly Changing Organizational Climate and Interpersonal Style 456
Issues and Choices Involved in Making Organizational Changes 468
Conclusion 480
Review and Discussion Questions 480

CHAPTER 16 Goals for Organizational Change and Development 482

Criteria for Evaluating Change and Development Goals 483
Typical Value Assumptions 486
Goals for Individuals in Their Organizational Roles 490
Goals for the Maintenance of the Organization 496
Goals for the Performance of the Organization 504
Overview: Are These Developmental and Change Goals Being Achieved? 508
Review and Discussion Questions 508

CHAPTER 17 Conclusions

The Nature and Meaning of Work Must Change 511
Organizations Should Become More Accountable for All Their Actions 516
Organizations Should Become More Pluralistic and More Individualized 519

BIBLIOGRAPHY 525

INDEXES 549
NAME INDEX
SUBJECT INDEX