

The Fractured Community

Landscapes of Power and Gender in Rural Zambia

Kate Crehan

University of California Press

Berkeley / Los Angeles / London

Contents

PREFACE AND ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	vii
A NOTE ON ORTHOGRAPHY AND USAGE	ix
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS	xi
1
Introduction: Theoretical Locations	I
2
Observing Power	37
Part One: Failing Better	37
Part Two: How the Kaonde Became a "Tribe"	53
3
Political Locations I: The Community of Kin	76
4
Political Locations II: Citizens and Kin	115
5
Economic Locations: Men, Women, and Production	143
6
Imagined Locations: The Dangerous Community	186
Part One: Devouring Kin	186
Part Two: Of Mushingi and the Market	202

7
Conclusion: Of Communities and Landscapes		224
APPENDIX		235
BIBLIOGRAPHY		241
INDEX		251