

A
386039

Linga
Lo
64

Caribbean Romances:
The Politics of Regional Representation

Belinda J. Edmondson, Editor

New World Studies

A. James Arnold, editor

University Press of Virginia
Charlottesville and London
(1999)

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction: The Caribbean: Myths, Tropes, Discourses Belinda J. Edmondson	1
1. Canonized Hybridities, Resistant Hybridities: Chutney Soca, Carnival, and the Politics of Nationalism Shalini Puri	12
2. Soca and Social Formations: Avoiding the Romance of Culture in Trinidad Stefano Harney	39
3. Trinidad Romance: The Invention of Jamaican Carnival Belinda J. Edmondson	56

4. All That Is Black Melts into Air: Negritud and Nation in Puerto Rico Catherine Den Tandt	76
5. Positive Vibration? Capitalist Textual Hegemony and Bob Marley Mike Alleyne	92
6. “Titid ak pèp la se marasa”: Jean-Bertrand Aristide and the New National Romance in Haiti Kevin Meehan	105
7. Shadowboxing in the Mangrove: The Politics of Identity in Postcolonial Martinique Richard Price and Sally Price	123
8. Beautiful Indians, Troublesome Negroes, and Nice White Men: Caribbean Romances and the Invention of Trinidad Faith Smith	163
9. Homing Instincts: Immigrant Nostalgia and Gender Politics in Brown Girl, Brownstones Supriya Nair	183
10. Derek Walcott: Liminal Spaces/ Substantive Histories Tejumola Olaniyan	199
Contributors	215
Index	217