

Media as Politics

Theory, Behavior, and Change in America

Michael Kahan

Brooklyn College, CUNY

Prentice Hall, Upper Saddle River, New Jersey 07458

C O N T E N T S

Preface

ix

Chapter One

Introduction: Media, the State, and the Individual

1

- The State and the Globalization of Identity 1
Social and Moral Control Systems and the New Media 6
The Public Sphere and the Struggle for Hegemony 9

Chapter Two

Media

12

- Media as Message 12
Media, Sine Qua Non 16
Media as Subject 18
The Media as a Force for Democratization, with Some Reservations 18
The Media as Nefarious Influence on Democracy 19
Media as Politics 22
Is Theory Possible? 23
Hegemony 25

The Public Sphere	29
A Turning Point?	33
Media as Quasi-independent Variables	38
New Media, New Messages	40
Media Decentralization and the Challenge to the State	45
The New "Public Sphere" and the Struggle for Hegemony in the Next Millennium	46

Chapter Three

Parties

52

Political Parties as Media	52
The Analogy from the Commercial World	53
Affirmative Action: A Conceptual Case Study	56
From Party to Television: The Transformation of Venues for Participation and the Case of the Huxtables	57
Older New Media	61
Media and the Continuities of Human Needs	65
The Abortion Example	66
Individualization of Issues	67
Parties as "Natural" Media	68
Factions and Parties at the Outset	69
Transition to the New Media	76
The Past into the Future: Continuities of Function	80
From Party to Candidate	83
From Mainstream to Metaphor	86

Chapter Four

Voting: Changing Forms of Participation

99

Voting as the Simplest Form of Participation	99
Voter Registration, Turnout, and Nonvoters	100
The Limits of the Two-Party System?	103
A Consideration of Spatial Model Conceptions of Political Competition	105
The New Media and New Perceptions of the "Political Space"	106
The Measurement of Attitudes and Perceptions of the "Political Space"	107
Varieties of Data and Their Interpretation	109
The Place of the Voting Act	110
The Media as Politics: Using the Media as Political Participation	111
Lifeworld and Systems World	113
Extensions of the "Political"	118
Participation and the "Public Sphere"	121

Chapter Five
Voting: Turnout and Generational Change
126

Turnout Decline: The Problem	126
A Brief Comparative Perspective	127
Some Theories of Nonvoting in America	130
A Variety of Approaches to the Problem	131
Some Proscriptive Analyses: Why Americans Don't Vote and "Bowling Alone"	132
The "Turnout Problem" and "The Puzzle Transformed," Burnham's and Miller's Contributions	144
The Impact of Selective Death Rates	152
A Look at Some Other Relevant Data and Some Possibly Useful Insights	161
Thinking Outside the Conventional "Box"	165

Chapter Six
Socialization
168

The Uncertainties of Influence	168
The Nature of the Agents Changes as Well	170
Political Institutions, Including the Parties, as Agents of Socialization	171
The Decline of Traditional Forms of Socialization	173
Thinking about the Unknowns	178
Forms and Contents	179
Franklin Roosevelt as the First Modern Political "Celebrity"	183
The Media Gap	187
Generations and Their Media	189
The Realm of the Family	189
Indicators of Structural Change in the Family	192
Education as a "Disturbing" Factor	195
"Lateral" Socialization in the New-Media Age	197

Chapter Seven
Conclusion: Implications
202

Media and Content	202
New Media	203
Communication and Participation	206
Theory as a Paradigm for Behavior	207
Media and Society	207
The Extensions over Time	210

viii Contents

Content and Presentation	213
Media and Socialization	215
Incumbency and Mediating Institutions	216
The Media as Reinforcing Agents	219
Are the Media Biased?	221
The Acceleration of Media Innovation: New Modes Proliferate More Quickly	223
Continuities with the Founders	230

Notes

233

Bibliography

255

Index

261