

1. Begutachter Professor/Dozent Heinrich

2. Begutachter Professor/Dozent Nowak

9501

Wien, am 25. 1. 2000

Der Studienleiter: Wahlschögl et al.

Do international institutions matter?

"Minority rights in Central- and Eastern Europe"
Case study of Slovakia

05. 1789

DISSERTATION

zur Erlangung des Doktorgrades der Philosophie an der Grund- und Integrativwissenschaftlichen
Fakultät der Universität Wien

eingereicht von

Sonja Bachmann

Wien, Dezember 1999

Table of Contents

I. Introduction	3
II. Theoretical framework	5
1. Research significance and case selection	5
2. Research question	7
3. Hypothesis, methodology and argumentation	9
4. Conceptual clarifications	13
4.1 "Impact" of institutions	13
4.2 "Minorities"	16
III. "Hungarian minority in Slovakia" Historical and recent developments	18
1. Historical background	18
2. Recent developments	21
IV. The OSCE High Commissioner on National Minorities (HCNM), the Council of Europe and the Hungarian Minority situation in Slovakia	29
1. The OSCE and minorities	29
2. Origin/mandate of the HCNM: An instrument of preventive diplomacy	31
3. A vague mandate: Limitation or opportunity?	37
4. The Council of Europe and minority rights	40
5. Individual vs. collective rights, minority rights vs. non-discrimination	45
6. Involvement of the HCNM and the Council of Europe (1993-1999)	54
a) Signposts and Names	61
b) The State Language Law	79
c) Alternative Education	103
V. The European Union and Slovakia	118
1. Introduction	118
2. First pillar versus second/third pillar action	119
3. The EU and minority rights	123
3.1 Introduction	123
3.2 CFSP action	126
3.3 Community legislation: Association Agreements	128
3.4 EU policy with regard to Slovakia (1994-1999)	136
3.5 Evaluation of EU impact	155
VI. Conclusions	160
VII. Comparison, policy recommendations and predictions	166
Bibliography	173

German Summary

Annex