

Contents

Contributors	ix
Introduction: Official and Alternative Legacies János Mátyás Kovács	xi
I. Entrepreneurs, Reformers, and Privatizers: On the Economics of Transformation
1 Modernity or a New Kind of Duality? Second Thoughts about the “Second Economy” István R. Gábor	3
2 Planning the Transformation? (Notes about the Legacy of the Reform Economists) János Mátyás Kovács	21
3 Opposition against “Market Breakthrough Reforms” Revisited Jerzy Osiatynski	47
4 Paths of Extrication and Possibilities of Transformation László Bruszt and David Stark	59
5 Path Dependence and Privatization Strategies in East Central Europe David Stark	63

II. Democracy and/or Liberalism: On the Politics of Transformation

- |    |   |     |
|----|---|-----|
| 6  | Transformative Politics: Social Costs and Social Peacein East Central EuropeLászló Bruszt                        | 103 |
| 7  | From Soft Communism to Post-Communism(Authoritarian Legacy and Democratic Transitionin Hungary)András Bozóki | 121 |
| 8  | Is What Is Left Right? (The Yugoslav Heritage)Vladimir Gligorov  | 147 |
| 9  | Poland After the Revolution—the ObfuscatedAutonomy of PoliticsJan T. Gross                                       | 173 |
| 10 | Conservatism in Central and Eastern EuropeGeorge Schöpflin   | 187 |

III. From Civil Society to Civil Disobedience? On the Sociology of Transformation

- |    |  |     |
|----|--|-----|
| 11 | The Forgotten Legacy of Marginal IntellectualsIvan Bernik   | 205 |
| 12 | St. Peter and John Stuart MillMarcin Król   | 217 |
| 13 | From Velvet Revolution to Velvet Divorce?(Reflections on Slovakia's Independence)Martin Bútorá, Zora Bútorová &amp;Olga Gyárfásová | 229 |
| 14 | Social Change, Political Beliefs, and EverydayExpectations in Hungarian Society:A Comparative ViewAntal Örkény and György Csepeli   | 259 |

15	The Vulture and the Calamity (Or, Why Were Hungarian Taxi Drivers Able to Rebel?) Endre Sik	275
----	---	-----

IV. Comparative Perspectives

16	Observations on the Transition in East-Central Europe Peter L. Berger	293
17	Watching Eastern Europe, Thinking about Latin America Barry B. Levine	299
18	Cultural Legacies and Development: A View from East Asia Robert P. Weller	309
	Name Index	319
	Subject Index	321