

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
List of Tables, Maps, and Figures	xi
List of Abbreviations	xiii
Note on Transliteration	xv

Introduction	1
--------------------	---

PART I

Chapter One: Extraordinary Taxes (' Avārız) and Local
Administration	19
The ' Avārız ' Tax Regime and the Conduct of Tax Surveys	22
The Mechanics of Local Tax Administration: Land Use, Personal Liability, and Apportionment	36
The Responsibilities and Compensation of Quarter Tax Officials	44
A Fiscal Demography of Aleppo	53
Chapter Two: Urban Responses to the Imposition of
Extraordinary Taxes	63
The Frequency and Level of Extraordinary Tax Levies	64
Popular Strategies for Tax Relief: Tax Exemption	70
Other Individual Strategies for Tax Relief	90
Collective Action and Mutual Assistance	94
Residential Quarters and the Question of "Positive Loyalties"	109

PART II

Chapter Three: Military Units: Elements of Solidarity and
Division	115
Survey of Military Cadres	118
Residence Patterns	130
Compensation of Troops	142

Ocaklık and the Guards of the Kars Citadel	153
Soldiers, Market Regulation, and Moneylending	158
Mobilization and Unit Solidarity	180
The Career of 'Alī b. Shabīb (d. ca. 1678)	185
The Episode of 'Alī Agha b. 'Abdullāh	192
Limits on Unit Discipline and Solidarity	199

PART III

Chapter Four: Solidarity and Leadership in the Guilds	205
Guild Self-Government	208
The Leadership of the Guilds: Two Case Studies	221
The Butchers	226
The Ḳaşapbaşı : Compensation and Social Background ...	229
The Tanners	247
The Akhī Bābā and Shaykh al-Sab'a	247
A Sketch of one Shaykh al-Sab'a : Sayyid Ibrāhīm b. Sayyid Rajab al-Ḥanbalī (d. 1678)	257
The Shaykh al-Dabbāghīn and Naqīb al-Dabbāghīn	264
Relations among Guilds	271
Guilds: Patterns of Autonomy and Organizational Fluidity	283
Conclusion	287
Glossary	293
Bibliography	295
Index	319