

Contents

Introduction i

Part I

CONDUCTING INTERVIEWS IN THE POST-SOVIET SPACE

Oral Testimony as History 9

Silence as Testimony 13

Part II

WOMEN, WORK, AND FAMILY IN SOVIET LITHUANIA

State Propaganda and Assistance for Working Mothers 19

Reconciling Family and Work: Everyday Practices 27

Gender Roles and Family Life 37

Soviet Romantic Love and Friendship 43

Part III

LIFE STORIES OF LITHUANIAN WOMEN

Stefanija Kučinskienė (b. 1914–2004)

“Maybe she was afraid because I was a political prisoner?” 53

Monika Jonynaitė-Makūnienė (b. 1920)

“I almost wanted him to die” 69

Leokadija Diržinskaitė (b. 1921–2008)

“Everyone was creating socialism, and everyone was looking at it with hope” 89

Julija Greičienė (b. 1926)

“I wasn’t sorry that I got divorced – I felt like a fully-esteemed person again” 107

Marija Popova (b. 1932)

“I got married to a Russian and was a member of the Party” 125

Apolonija Birutė Paliulienė (b. 1937)

“I always had two or three jobs. But why did I work so much?” 143

Adasa Skliutauskaitė (b. 1931)

“You’re different to all the other women” 155

Aušra Dilienė (b. 1932)

“We had so much fun in our life” 163

Aneta Šlegel (b. ~1940)

“If the state gives you full care then it goes without saying what kind of person you should be and how you should see things” 175

Danutė Marija Kvasienė (b. 1938)

“Life has passed by, just like that...” 185

Conclusions 197

Notes 201

References 219

Archives 225

List of Illustrations 227

Index 229