

Contents

|  |       |
|--|-------|
| List of tables  | viii  |
| Foreword by the Series Editor   | ix    |
| Preface   | x     |
| Acknowledgements  | xiv   |
| Language note   | xvii  |
| List of abbreviations   | xviii |
|    |       |
| 1 Introduction: gender and the state   | 1     |
|    |       |
| 2 The women's movement and gender policy: dynamics of resistance, tension, and negotiation                         | 20    |
|    |       |
| 3 Prostitution, feminist discourse, and the women's movement: the enactment of the law against prostitution (2004) | 37    |
|    |       |
| 4 The personal is political: the abolition of the family-head system (2005)  | 66    |
|    |       |
| 5 From feminist politics to family politics: the healthy family law and childcare policy (2004–07)                 | 90    |
|    |       |
| 6 Conclusion: the Korean women's movement at the crossroads  | 115   |
|    |       |
| References  | 122   |
| Index   | 141   |