

Congo Love Song

African American Culture and the Crisis of the Colonial State

IRA DWORKIN

The University of North Carolina Press
Chapel Hill

Contents

Acknowledgments, xi

Abbreviations Used in the Text, xvii

Introduction, 1

James Weldon Johnson's Transnational Vaudeville

PART I The Nineteenth-Century Routes of Black Transnationalism, 17

Chapter 1 George Washington Williams's Stern Duty of History, 19

Chapter 2 William Henry Sheppard's Country of My Forefathers, 49

Chapter 3 Booker T. Washington's African at Home, 78

PART II The Twentieth-Century Cultures of the American Congo, 107

Chapter 4 Missionary Cultures, 109

The American Presbyterian Congo Mission, Althea Brown Edmiston, and the Languages of the Congo

Chapter 5 Literary Cultures, 139

The Black Press, Pauline E. Hopkins, and the Rewriting of Africa

Chapter 6 Visual Cultures, 163

Hampton Institute, William Sheppard's Kuba Collection, and African American Art

PART III The Congo in Modern African American Poetics and Politics, 201

Chapter 7 Near the Congo, 203

Langston Hughes and the Geopolitics of Internationalist Poetry

Chapter 8 Another Black Magazine with a Lumumba Poem, 224

Patrice Lumumba and African American Poetry

Chapter 9 The Chickens Coming Home to Roost, 257

Malcolm X, the Congo, and Modern Black Nationalism

Conclusion, 288

Appendix, 295

Malcolm X on the Congo, February 14, 1965, Detroit

Notes, 299

Bibliography, 363

Credits, 417

Index, 419

A section of color plates follows page 172.