

Contents

Foreword by Paul Willis	xix
Acknowledgements	xxiii
Tables and Figures	xxiv
PART ONE FOUNDATIONS OF CULTURAL STUDIES	1
1 An Introduction to Cultural Studies	3
Concerning this book	3
Selectivity	3
The language-game of cultural studies	4
Cultural studies as politics	5
The parameters of cultural studies	5
The Centre for Contemporary Cultural Studies	6
Disciplining cultural studies	6
Key concepts in cultural studies	7
Culture and signifying practices	7
Representation	8
Materialism and non-reductionism	8
Articulation	9
Power	9
Popular culture	9
Texts and readers	10
Subjectivity and identity	10
The intellectual strands of cultural studies	11
Marxism and the centrality of class	12
Capitalism	12
Marxism and cultural studies	13
Culturalism and structuralism	14
Culture is ordinary	14
Structuralism	15
Deep structures of language	15
Culture as like a language	16
Poststructuralism (and postmodernism)	17

CONTENTS

vi	Derrida: the instability of language	17
	Foucault and discursive practices	18
	Anti-essentialism	19
	Postmodernism	19
	Psychoanalysis and subjectivity	20
	The Freudian self	20
	The Oedipus complex	21
	The politics of difference: feminism, race and postcolonial theory	22
	Feminism	22
	Race, ethnicity and hybridity	23
	Questions of methodology	24
	Epistemology	24
	Key methodologies in cultural studies	25
	Ethnography	25
	Textual approaches	28
	Reception studies	29
	The place of theory	30
	Summary	31
2	Central Problems in Cultural Studies	32
	Overcoming problems in cultural studies	33
	Problem: Language, culture and the material	34
	Problem: The textual character of culture	37
	Problem: The location of culture	40
	Problem: How is cultural change possible?	42
	Problem: Rationality and its limits	45
	Problem: Culture and the body	48
	Problem: The character of truth and value	50
	Summary	54
PART TWO	QUESTIONS OF CULTURE	55
3	Questions of Culture and Ideology	57
	Culture with a capital C: the great and the good in the literary tradition	58
	Leavisism	58
	Culture is ordinary	59
	The anthropological approach to culture	60
	Culturalism: Hoggart, Thompson, Williams	60
	Richard Hoggart: The Uses of Literacy	60
	Edward Thompson: The Making of the English Working Class	61
	Raymond Williams and cultural materialism	61
	High culture/low culture: aesthetics and the collapse of boundaries	63

A question of quality	63
Form and content	64
Ideological analysis	64
The problem of judgement	65
Mass culture: popular culture	66	vii
Culture as mass deception	66
Criticisms of the Frankfurt School	67
Creative consumption	67
Popular culture	68
The popular is political	69
Culture and the social formation	69
Marxism and the metaphor of base and superstructure	70
The foundations of culture	70
Culture as class power	71
The specificity of culture	72
Williams: totality and the variable distance of practices	72
Relative autonomy and the specificity of cultural practices	73
Althusser and the social formation	73
Relative autonomy	74
Articulation and the circuit of culture	74
Two economies	75
The question of ideology	76
Marxism and false consciousness	76
Althusser and ideology	77
Ideological state apparatuses	77
Fragmented subjects	78
The double character of ideology	78
Althusser and cultural studies	79
Gramsci, ideology and hegemony	80
Cultural and ideological hegemony	80
Ideology and popular culture	81
The instability of hegemony	81
Gramscian cultural studies	82
The problems of hegemony and ideology	83
Hegemony	83
Ideology	84
Summary	87
4 Culture, Meaning, Knowledge:
The Linguistic Turn in Cultural Studies	88
Saussure and semiotics	89
Signifying systems	89
Cultural codes	90
Barthes and mythology	92

CONTENTS

	'Myth Today'	92
	Polysemic signs	94
	Poststructuralism and intertextuality	95
viii	Derrida: textuality and différance	95
	Nothing but signs	95
	Différance	97
	Derrida's postcards	98
	Strategies of writing	98
	Deconstruction	99
	Derrida and cultural studies	100
	Foucault: discourse, practice and power	101
	Discursive practices	101
	Discourse and discipline	102
	The productivity of power	103
	The subjects of discourse	104
	Post-Marxism and the discursive construction of the 'social'	105
	Deconstructing Marxism	105
	The articulated social	106
	Language and psychoanalysis: Lacan	107
	The mirror phase	108
	The symbolic order	109
	The unconscious as 'like a language'	109
	Problems with Lacan	110
	Language and emotion	111
	Language as use: Wittgenstein and Rorty	112
	Wittgenstein's investigations	112
	Language as a tool	112
	Language-games	113
	Lyotard and incommensurability	114
	Rorty and the contingency of language	115
	Anti-representationalism	115
	Truth as social commendation	116
	Describing and evaluating	117
	Culture as conversation	118
	Culture as performance	118
	Discourse and the material	119
	Indissolubility	119
	Languages for purposes	120
	Summary	121
5	Biology, Evolution and Culture:
	Questions of Reductionism and Complexity	122
	The problem of reductionism	123
	Forms of reduction	123

Complexity and holism	125
The capabilities of science	126
Languages for purposes	128
The cultured body	129
A body of theory	130	ix
The medical body	132
The evolved body of biology	134
Natural selection	135
The place of genes	135
Evolutionary culture	136
Evolutionary psychology	137
The evolved brain	138
Some implications for cultural studies	140
Biology and culture: the case of emotions	141
What is emotion?	142
Bodily response and cognitive appraisal	143
Emotions and psychotherapy	145
Drugs and talk	145
The language of biochemistry	146
The emotional brain	147
Complexity and the pragmatic test	148
Meme theory	148
Culture off the leash	149
Summary	151
 PART THREE THE CHANGING CONTEXT OF CULTURAL STUDIES	 153
 6 A New World Disorder?	 155
Economy, technology and social class	156
Fordism	156
Post-Fordism	157
Reorganizing labour	158
The regulation school	159
'New Times'	160
Post-industrial society and the reconfiguration of class identities	161
The rise of the service class	161
Disorganized capitalism	162
Organized capitalism	163
Deconcentration and deindustrialization	163
Patterns of consumption	164
Postmodernization	164
The question of determination	165
Globalization	167
The dynamism of modernity	167

CONTENTS

	Global economic flows	168
	Global cultural flows	169
	Disjunctive flows	170
	Homogenization and fragmentation	171
x	Cultural imperialism and its critics	171
	Hybridity and complex cultural flows	172
	Glocalization	174
	Creolization	174
	Globalization and power	175
	Modernity as loss	176
	The state, politics and New Social Movements	177
	The decline of the nation-state and the end of history?	178
	Form and competence	178
	Autonomy	179
	Legitimation	179
	The fall of communism	180
	The end of history?	180
	New Social Movements	181
	Displacing class?	182
	Life-politics	183
	Symbolic communities	183
	Summary	185
7	Enter Postmodernism	186
	Defining the terms	186
	The institutions of modernity	187
	The industrial revolution	187
	Surveillance	188
	The dynamism of capitalist modernity	188
	The nation-state and military power	189
	Modernism and culture	190
	Modernism as a cultural experience	190
	Risk, doubt and reflexivity	190
	The flâneur	191
	The dark side of modernity	192
	Modernism as aesthetic style	193
	The problems of realism	193
	Fragmentation and the universal	194
	The cultural politics of modernism	194
	Modernisms	195
	Modern and postmodern knowledge	196
	The enlightenment project	196
	Scientific management	196
	Marxism as enlightenment philosophy	197
	Scientific laws and the principle of doubt	198

The critique of the enlightenment	199
Foucault	199
Postmodernism as the end of grand narratives	202
The end of epistemology	203
Relativism or postionality?	203	xi
The promise of postmodernism
(or modernity as an unfinished project?)	204
Politics without foundations	204
Modernity as an unfinished project	205
The public sphere	205
A normative project	206
Postmodern culture	207
The reflexive postmodern	207
Postmodernism and the collapse of cultural boundaries	208
Bricolage and intertextuality	209
The aestheticization of everyday life	209
Postmodern aesthetics in television	210
Postmodern detectives and gangsters	210
The cartoon postmodern	211
Evaluating postmodern culture	212
Depthless culture	212
Implosions and simulations	212
The cultural style of late capitalism	213
Transgressive postmodernism	213
Summary	214
 PART FOUR SITES OF CULTURAL STUDIES	 217
 8 Issues of Subjectivity and Identity	 219
Subjectivity and identity	219
Personhood as a cultural production	220
Essentialism and anti-essentialism	221
Self-identity as a project	221
Social identities	222
The fracturing of identity	223
The enlightenment subject	223
The sociological subject	224
The postmodern subject	224
Social theory and the fractured subject	224
The historical subject of Marxism	225
Psychoanalysis and subjectivity	225
Feminism and difference	227
Language and identity	228
The Foucauldian subject	229
The articulated self	230

CONTENTS

	Anti-essentialism and cultural identity	231
	The articulation of identities	232
	Sites of interaction	233
xii	Agency and the politics of identity	233
	The question of agency	233
	Foucault and the problem of agency	233
	Giddens and structuration theory	234
	The duality of structure	235
	The concept of agency	236
	Agency as making a difference	236
	Choice and determination	237
	Modes of discourse	238
	Originality	238
	Innovation and change	238
	Anti-essentialism, feminism and the politics of identity	239
	Biology as discourse	239
	Sex and gender	240
	Is a universal feminism possible?	241
	The project of feminism	242
	Creating 'new languages'	243
	Challenging the critique of identity	243
	Strategic essentialism	244
	Summary	245
9	Ethnicity, Race and Nation	247
	Race and ethnicity	248
	Racialization	248
	Different racisms	249
	The concept of ethnicity	250
	Ethnicity and power	251
	National identities	252
	The nation-state	252
	Narratives of unity	253
	The imagined community	253
	Criticisms of Anderson	254
	Diaspora and hybrid identities	255
	The idea of diaspora	255
	The Black Atlantic	256
	Types of hybridity	257
	The hybridity of all culture	258
	Hybridity and British Asians	258
	From 'sojourners to settlers'	258
	Switching cultural codes	259
	Multiple identities	260
	Intersections and boundary crossings	260

Weaving the patterns of identity	262
Race, ethnicity, representation	263
Savages and slaves	264
Plantation images	264
The criminalization of black Britons	265	xiii
Orientalism	266
Television and the representation of race and ethnicity	267
Whites only	267
Stereotyped representations	267
Signs of change	268
Menace to society	268
Assimilationist strategies	269
The ambiguities of representation	270
The new ghetto aesthetic	271
EastEnders	271
I'll Fly Away	272
The question of positive images	272
Postcolonial literature	274
Models of postcolonial literature	274
Domination and subordination	275
Hybridization and creolization	276
Summary	277
10 Sex, Subjectivity and Representation	279
Feminism and cultural studies	279
Patriarchy, equality and difference	280
Liberal and socialist feminism	281
Difference feminism	281
Black and postcolonial feminism	282
Poststructuralist feminism	282
Post-feminism	283
Sex, gender and identity	283
The science of sex	284
Women's difference	287
Irigaray and womanspeak	287
The social construction of sex and gender	288
Sex as a discursive construct	289
Sexed subjects	290
Foucault: subjectivity and sexuality	290
Sex and the discursive construction of the body	290
The feminist critique of Foucault	292
Ethics and agency	292
Psychoanalysis, feminism and sexed subjectivity	293
Regulating sexuality	293
Chodorow: masculinity and femininity	293

CONTENTS

	Phallocentric psychoanalysis	294
	Julia Kristeva	295
	Judith Butler: between Foucault and psychoanalysis	297
xiv	The performativity of sex	298
	Identification and abjection	298
	Drag: recasting the symbolic	299
	The discipline and the fiction of identity	300
	Men and masculinity	300
	Problematic masculinity	302
	The roots of male addiction	303
	The betrayal of the modern man	304
	The men's movement	305
	Gender, representation and media culture	306
	Images of women	307
	The bitch, the witch and the matriarch	307
	Affirmation and denial	308
	Women of Bollywood	308
	The Taming of the Shrew	309
	The problem of accuracy	310
	Subject positions and the politics of representation	310
	The slender body	311
	The independent mother	311
	Representing persons with AIDS	311
	Madonna's performance	313
	The question of audiences	313
	Summary	314
11	Television, Texts and Audiences	315
	Television as text: news and ideology	316
	Putting reality together	316
	The manipulative model	318
	The pluralist model	318
	The hegemonic model	319
	Agenda setting	319
	Gulf War news	320
	Presentational styles	321
	Television as text: soap opera as popular television	322
	Soap opera as a genre	322
	Telenovelas	323
	Women and soap opera	323
	Soap opera and the public sphere	324
	The active audience	325
	Encoding-decoding	326
	Hermeneutic theory	327
	The Nationwide audience	328

Watching Dallas	328
Ideology and resistance	329
Television audiences and cultural identity	330
The export of meaning	330
Localizing the global	331	xv
Audiences, space and identity	332
National space	332
Gendered space	332
Family space and global space	333
The globalization of television	333
The political economy of global television	334
Synergy and television ownership	335
Convergence and television technology	336
Deregulation and reregulation	337
Global electronic culture	338
Media imperialism	339
Regionalization	339
The global and the local	340
Global postmodern culture	341
Hyperreality and TV simulations	343
Consumer culture	343
Creative consumption	344
Summary	345
12 Cultural Space and Urban Place	347
Space and place in contemporary theory	348
Time-geography	348
Time-space	349
Space and place	350
The social construction of place	350
Gendered space	350
The multiple spaces of Lagos	351
Cities as places	353
The Chicago School	353
Criticisms of urban studies	355
Political economy and the global city	355
Capitalism and the urban environment	355
Global cities	357
The post-industrial global city	357
The symbolic economy of cities	358
Cultural economics	359
Privatizing public space	360
The public culture of private elites	361
Disney: fantasy and surveillance	361
The postmodern city	362

CONTENTS

	Postmodern urbanization	362
	Urban change: suburbs and edge cities	364
	Urban unrest	365
	Fortress LA	366
xvi	The excitement of the city	366
	Cyberspace and the city	367
	The information superhighway	368
	Electronic urban networks	368
	The informational city	369
	Electronic homes in global space	370
	The city as text	371
	Classified spaces	372
	The city which is not one	372
	Summary	373
13	Youth, Style and Resistance	374
	The emergence of youth	375
	Youth as moratorium	375
	Youth as cultural classification	376
	The ambiguity of youth	376
	Trouble and fun	377
	Youth subcultures	377
	Subterranean values	378
	Magical solutions	379
	Homologies	379
	Motorbike Boys	380
	Resistance through rituals	380
	The double articulation of youth	381
	Teds, Mods and Skins	381
	Signs of style	382
	Critiques of subcultural theory	383
	Youthful difference: class, gender, race	384
	The self-damnation of the working class	384
	Gendered youth	384
	Another space for girls	385
	Racialized youth	386
	The artifice of black hair	386
	Space: a global youth culture?	387
	Rapping and raving around the globe	388
	Syncretic global youth	389
	After subcultures	390
	Media spotlights	390
	Media devils and subcultural hero(in)es	391
	Postmodernism: the end of authenticity	392
	Postmodern bricoleurs	392

Claims to authenticity	393
Distinctions of taste	394
Creative consumption	394
Common culture	395
Resistance revisited	396	xvii
Resistance is conjunctural	396
Resistance as defence	397
Inside the whale	397
Hiding in the light	398
Tactics and strategies	399
Banality in cultural studies	400
Resistance: the normative stance of cultural critics	400
Summary	401
14 Cultural Politics and Cultural Policy	403
Cultural studies and cultural politics	404
Naming as cultural politics	404
Cultural politics: the influence of Gramsci	405
Winning hegemony	405
The role of intellectuals	406
Cultural studies as a political project	407
Gramscian texts	408
The cultural politics of difference	409
New languages of cultural politics	409
The politics of articulation	410
No class-belonging	411
The 'cut' in language	412
Difference, ethnicity and the politics of representation	413
Invisibility and namelessness	413
Positive images	413
Multiculturalism and anti-racism	414
The politics of representation	414
Difference, citizenship and the public sphere	415
Habermas and the public sphere	415
The democratic tradition	416
Radical democracy	416
Questioning cultural studies	417
The critique of cultural populism	417
A multiperspectival approach	418
The circuit of culture	419
The cultural policy debate	420
Redirecting the cultural studies project	420
Governmentality	421
Culture and power	421
Foucault or Gramsci?	422

CONTENTS

	Policy and the problem of values	424
	Shifting the command metaphors of cultural studies	424
	The horizon of the thinkable	425
	Criticism and policy	426
xviii	Neo-pragmatism and cultural studies	426
	Pragmatism and cultural studies	427
	Richard Rorty: politics without foundations	427
	Anti-representationalism	428
	Anti-foundationalism	428
	Contingency, irony, solidarity	428
	Truth as social commendation	428
	Forging new languages	430
	Prophetic pragmatism	430
	Private identities and public politics	431
	The implications of pragmatism for cultural studies	433
	Summary	434
	Glossary: The Language-Game of Cultural Studies	435
	References	452
	Index	472