

Contents

List of figures and tables	xv	Why psychologists interpret Reicher and Haslam's research in different ways	17
Preface	xviii	Box 1.6 In the news: How can we explain aggressive behaviour?	18
Guided tour	xx
Guided tour of the companion website	xxii
Author's acknowledgements	xxiv	1.5 Some different 'streams of thought' within social psychological research	19
Publisher's acknowledgements	xxvi	Situationalist	19
		Rational actor	20
		Social cognition	20
		Group	21
		Evolutionary	22
		Cross-cultural	22
		Social representations	23
		Ideological	23
		Discourse analytic/discursive	24
		Conversation analytic	25
		1.6 About this book	25
		Summary	26
		Review questions	27
		Recommended reading	27
		Useful weblinks	28
1 Introduction	2	2 Self and identity	30
Introduction	3	Introduction	31
Chapter overview	4	Chapter overview	32
1.1 Two aspects of being critical	4	2.1 Historically important questions about self and identity	32
Critical literature	4	Is there a core self?	33
Critical thinking in social psychology	5	Is our identity socially created?	34
1.2 The emergence and development of social psychology – a conventional history and some unconventional problems	6	Box 2.1 Focus: Classic research: an empirical investigation into self-attitudes (Kuhn &amp; McPartland, 1954)	34
Box 1.1 Focus: One understanding of the emergence of social psychology	7	Box 2.2 Try it out: Role relationships and identity	35
Box 1.2 Try it out: Gestalt theory	8	Critical review of historically important questions about self and identity	35
1.3 Rethinking the development of social psychology	9	Critical recap: Historically important questions about self and identity	36
Figures missing from social psychology	9	Reflective questions	37
Box 1.3 Key researcher: Professor Michael Billig: critical psychology	10	2.2 Schemas and self	37
Neglected ideas of key figures in social psychology	11	Schematic dimensions	37
Rethinking critical thoughts about social psychology	12	Dynamic self-concept	38
1.4 Why can't social psychologists agree with each other?	12	Box 2.3 Try it out: The dynamic self-concept	39
Kuhn's paradigms	13	Culturally located self-schemas	40
Box 1.4 Try it out: Thinking in paradigms	13
Billig's fictional things	14
Data collection and theoretical assumptions	14
Box 1.5 Focus: Majority and minority influence	15
Making sense of Reicher and Haslam's BBC prison experiment	15
Reicher and Haslam's interpretation of their research	16
Zimbardo's interpretation of Reicher and Haslam's research	16

Critically reflecting on schemas and self	41	Recommended reading	72
Critical recap: Schemas and self	41	Useful weblinks	72
Reflective questions	42
2.3 Self, affect and esteem	42	3 Attraction and relationships	74
Self-awareness and affective state	42	Introduction	75
Self-comparison	43	Chapter overview	76
Self-regulation issues	45	3.1 Attraction	77
Ideal self and regulating affect as motives for compulsive buying	46	Evolutionary approaches to attraction	77
Critically reflecting on self and affect	48	Evaluating evolutionary psychology's perspective on human relationships	78
Critical recap: Self, affect and esteem	49	Critical recap: Evolutionary approaches to attraction	80
Reflective questions	49	Reflective questions	81
2.4 Social identities	49	3.2 Similarity	81
Box 2.4 Try it out: What are your social identities?	49	Box 3.1 Try it out: Proximity research	81
Box 2.5 Focus: Classic research: minimal group experiments (Tajfel, 1970)	50	Balance theory	82
Self-categorisation theory	51	Similarity and self	82
Social identities and behaviour	52	Why do people have sexual partners who are similar to themselves?	84
Critical reflections on social identities	52	Box 3.2 Focus: The experimental procedure used by Wood and Brumbaugh (2009)	86
Critical recap: Social identities	53	Critical recap: Similarity	88
Reflective questions	53	Reflective questions	88
2.5 Critiques of individualised concepts of self	53	3.3 Attribution of arousal	88
Individualising psychology	56	Critical recap: Attribution of arousal	91
Box 2.6 Key researcher: Professor Ken Gergen: constructions of self	56	Reflective questions	91
Critical reflection on critiques of individualised concepts of self	58	3.4 Exchange and equity theories of relationships	91
Critical recap: Critiques of individualised concepts of self	59	Exchange theory	92
Reflective questions	59	Equity theory	93
2.6 Identity talk in interaction	59	Box 3.3 Focus: A typical measure of perceived equity taken from Traupmann, Hatfield and Wexler (1983)	94
Contradictory constructions of identity	60	Critical recap: Exchange and equity theories of relationships	98
Transcription key	61	Reflective questions	98
Membership categorisation devices in talk about self and others	62	3.5 Attribution	98
Box 2.7 In the news: Category-based descriptions	64	Box 3.4 Try it out: Attributions and relationships	99
Invoking knowledge identities in interaction	65	Critical recap: Attribution	99
Box 2.8 Try it out: Knowledge identities in interaction	67	Reflective questions	99
Reflecting on self in interaction	67	3.6 Constructing relationships	99
Critical recap: Identity talk in interaction	68	Cultural constructions of gender and relationships	100
Reflective questions	68	Constructing gender and relationships in interaction	101
2.7 Foucault and self-formation	68	Box 3.5 Key researcher: Professor Elizabeth Stokoe: social interaction and relationships	102
Subject positions	69	Box 3.6 Focus: Professor Judith Butler – gender as performative	104
Critical reflection on Foucault and self-formation	70
Critical recap: Foucault and self-formation	70
Reflective questions	71
Summary	71
Review questions	72

	Critical recap: Constructing relationships	105	Self-biases	135
	Reflective questions	105	Critical recap: Self-biases	137
3.7	Reflections on research on attraction and relationships	105	Reflective questions	137
	Box 3.7 In the news: A virtually unfaithful partner	106	Intergroup biases	138
	Summary	107	Critical review of intergroup biases	140
	Review questions	108	Critical recap: Intergroup biases	141
	Recommended reading	108	Reflective questions	141
	Useful weblinks	108
4	Attribution	110	4.4 Societal attributions	141
	Introduction	111	Social representations	141
	Chapter overview	112	Box 4.7 Try it out: Thinking about social representations	143
4.1	Founding figures of causal attribution	113	Critical recap: Societal attributions	144
	Fritz Heider	113	Reflective questions	144
	Gustav Ichheiser	115	4.5 Critical review of attribution research	144
	Edward Jones and Keith Davis' (1965) correspondent inference theory	115	Critical recap: Attribution research	146
	Critical recap: Edward Jones and Keith Davis' (1965) correspondent inference theory	117	Reflective questions	146
	Reflective questions	117	Summary	146
4.2	Harold Kelley's covariation and configuration models	117	Review questions	147
	Kelley's (1967) covariation model of causal attribution	117	Recommended reading	147
	Box 4.1 In the news: The Hillsborough tragedy	119	Useful weblinks	148
	Box 4.2 Try it out: Kelley's configuration model	122
	Kelley's (1972) configuration model	122	5 Explanatory talk	150
	Critical evaluation of Kelley's covariation and configuration models	123	Introduction	151
	Box 4.3 Focus: Applications of attribution theory: attribution and relationship satisfaction	124	Chapter overview	152
	Critical recap: Harold Kelley's covariation and configuration models	126	Box 5.1 Try it out: Explaining behaviour	153
	Reflective questions	126	5.1 Attributional semantics	153
4.3	Attribution biases	127	Box 5.2 Focus: Researching implicit causality in English verbs (Ferstl, Garnham, & Manouilidou, 2011)	155
	The fundamental attribution error	127	Critical review of attributional semantics	156
	Box 4.4 Try it out: The fundamental attribution error	127	Critical recap: Attributional semantics	159
	Box 4.5 In the news: Tragedy at Love Parade	128	Reflective questions	159
	Critical recap: The fundamental attribution error	130	5.2 Conversational model of attribution	159
	Reflective questions	130	Critical review of the conversational model of attribution	162
	Actor–observer differences	130	Critical recap: Conversational model of attribution	164
	Box 4.6 Focus: The experimental procedure used by Storms (1973)	132	Reflective questions	165
	Critical recap: Actor–observer differences	135	5.3 Account-giving literature	165
	Reflective questions	135	Box 5.3 Focus: Overview of Weiner et al.'s (1987) experiments	168
			Critical review of the account-giving literature	169
			Critical recap: Account-giving literature	170
			Reflective questions	170
			5.4 Discursive and conversation analytic approaches	170
			Discursive psychology and the explanatory relevance of 'descriptive' talk	171
			Box 5.4 Try it out: The explanatory relevance of 'descriptive' talk	176

Conversation analysis and the sequential relevance and placement of explanatory talk	177	Ajzen's (1985) theory of planned behaviour	202
Box 5.5 Key researcher: Professor Charles Antaki: conversation analysis	179	Box 6.5 Try it out: Good intentions, bad habits	204
Box 5.6 Try it out: Thinking about real-world explanations	181	Critical recap: Attitudes and behaviour	205
Critical review of discursive and conversation analytic approaches	181	Reflective questions	206
Box 5.7 In the news: Accounting for political decisions	182	6.5 Critical perspectives on attitude research	206
Critical recap: Discursive and conversation analytic approaches	183	Attitudes as social rather than purely individual	206
Reflective questions	183	Attitudes as action-orientated rather than purely expressive	208
Summary	183	Box 6.6 Focus: A science of democracy (Rose, 1998)	209
Review questions	184	Critical recap: Critical perspectives on attitude research	210
Recommended reading	184	Reflective questions	211
Useful weblinks	184	6.6 Attitude change and persuasion	211
6 Attitude change and persuasion	186	Consistency theories	211
Introduction	187	Ingredients of persuasion	213
Chapter overview	187	Critical recap: Attitude change and persuasion	216
6.1 Different ways of thinking about attitudes	188	Reflective questions	216
Traditional approaches to attitudes	189	6.7 Rhetorical, discursive and conversation analytic approaches to 'persuasive talk'	216
Rhetoric and attitudes	189	Constructing talk as reflecting 'out there' reality	217
6.2 How many components does an attitude have?	191	Box 6.7 Try it out: Constructing talk as reflecting 'out there' reality	217
One-component view	191	Constructing talk as being against or beyond the speaker's own interests	218
Two-component view	191	Invoking commonplaces, rhetorically self-sufficient arguments and categories in talk	219
Three-component view	192	Critical recap: Rhetorical, discursive and conversation analytic approaches to 'persuasive talk'	221
Reflecting on components of attitudes	192	Reflective questions	221
Box 6.1 Focus: Breast or bottle?	193	Summary	221
Critical recap: How many components does an attitude have?	194	Review questions	222
Reflective questions	194	Recommended reading	222
6.3 How attitudes and behaviour are measured	194	Useful weblinks	223
Attitude scales	194	7 Stereotypes and prejudice	224
Box 6.2 Focus: Illustrations of three different attitude scales	195	Introduction	225
Box 6.3 Try it out: Measuring attitudes	196	Chapter overview	226
Implicit association test	197	7.1 Stereotype content	226
Measuring behaviour	198	The Princeton trilogy	226
Box 6.4 Focus: Are attitudes an artefact of the procedures used to measure them? (Puchta & Potter, 2002)	199	Box 7.1 Focus: Key thinker: Walter Lippmann	227
Critical recap: How attitudes and behaviour are measured	199	Stereotype content model	232
Reflective questions	200	Critical review of stereotype content research	232
6.4 Attitudes and behaviour	200	Critical recap: Stereotype content	233
Martin Fishbein and Icek Ajzen's (1975) theory of reasoned action	201	Reflective questions	233

7.2 Cognitive approaches to the formation of stereotypes	233
Solomon Asch's model of impression formation	233
The illusory correlation	234
Criticisms of cognitive approaches to the formation of stereotypes	235
Box 7.2 In the news: A disconfirmed stereotype?	236
Critical recap: Cognitive approaches to the formation of stereotypes	237
Reflective questions	237
7.3 Categorisation and prejudice	237
Gordon Allport	237
Henri Tajfel	238
Criticisms of Allport's and Tajfel's categorisation approaches	241
Critical recap: Categorisation and prejudice	242
Reflective questions	242
7.4 Schemas and cognitive processing	242
Which schema will people use?	243
How schemas shape encoding	243
How schemas shape memory	244
How schemas shape inference and evaluation	245
Critical review of categorisation, schemas and cognitive processing research	246
Critical recap: Schemas and cognitive processing	248
Reflective questions	248
7.5 Stereotypes and disconfirming stimuli	248
Critical reflection on Locksley et al.'s experiments	251
Rethinking stereotypes in the light of Locksley et al.	251
Critical recap: Stereotypes and disconfirming stimuli	252
Reflective questions	253
7.6 Discourse and prejudice	253
Orientating to the accountability of appearing prejudiced	253
Box 7.3 Key researcher: Professor Martha Augoustinos: stereotypes and prejudice	254
Constructions of difference	257
Interactional context of the talk	258
Critical review of discourse and prejudice	259
Critical recap: Discourse and prejudice	260
Reflective questions	260
Summary	260
Review questions	261
Recommended reading	261
Useful weblinks	262

8 Prosocial behaviour	264
Introduction	265
Chapter overview	266
8.1 Why do people engage in prosocial behaviour?	266
Box 8.1 Try it out: Motivations and emotions in prosocial behaviour	267
Motivations for prosocial behaviour	267
Box 8.2 In the news: A tale of two onlookers	268
Box 8.3 Focus: Three models of motivation for prosocial behaviour	271
Psychological state and prosocial behaviour	272
Box 8.4 Focus: Positive and negative moods and prosocial behaviour	273
Critical recap: Why do people engage in prosocial behaviour?	276
Reflective questions	276
8.2 Evolutionary perspectives on prosocial behaviour	276
Evolutionary theory	276
Kin selection theory	277
Reciprocal altruism	279
Group selection theory	280
Box 8.5 Focus: Three models of evolutionary perspectives on prosocial behaviour	281
Critical recap: Evolutionary perspectives on prosocial behaviour	281
Reflective questions	282
8.3 When do people help?	282
Box 8.6 Try it out: Accounting for prosocial behaviour	283
Diffusion of responsibility and prosocial behaviour	284
Box 8.7 Focus: Rethinking Kitty Genovese	285
Box 8.8 Key researcher: Professor Jane Piliavin: altruism and helping behaviour	289
Critical recap: Diffusion of responsibility and prosocial behaviour	290
Reflective questions	291
Attribution and prosocial behaviour	291
The just world hypothesis	292
Critical recap: Attribution and the just world hypothesis and prosocial behaviour	293
Reflective questions	293
8.4 Integrating why and when: arousal and decision making in prosocial behaviour	293
The arousal: cost–reward model	295
Critical recap: Integrating why and when: arousal and decision making in prosocial behaviour	299
Reflective questions	299

8.5	Critiquing research into prosocial behaviour	299		Critical recap: Dolf Zillmann's excitation transfer and aggression model	322
	Help given to and received from known or similar others	300		Reflective questions	322
	Planned helping	300	9.4	General aggression model	322
	Group aspects of prosocial behaviour	301		Critical review of the general aggression model	324
	Constructing prosocial behaviour	302		Box 9.5 In the news: Understanding military aggression	325
	Box 8.9 Try it out: Constructing prosocial behaviour	303		Critical recap: General aggression model	325
	Critical recap: Critiquing research into prosocial behaviour	304		Reflective questions	325
	Reflective questions	305	9.5	Critical review of how experiments measure aggression and its causes	326
	Summary	305		Box 9.6 Focus: How aggression has been measured in aggression research	327
	Review questions	306		Critical recap: How experiments measure aggression and its causes	328
	Recommended reading	306		Reflective questions	329
	Useful weblinks	306
9	Aggression and intergroup conflict	308	9.6	Deindividuation	329
	Introduction	309		Box 9.7 Focus: Summary of classic and contemporary deindividuation theories	332
	Chapter overview	310		Box 9.8 Try it out: Deindividuation	332
9.1	Evolutionary approaches to aggression	310		Box 9.9 Focus: Anonymity and situational cues (Johnson &amp; Downing, 1979)	333
	Konrad Lorenz	310		Social identity deindividuation effects (SIDE)	333
	Reviewing evolutionary approaches to aggression	311		Box 9.10 Focus: Summary of social identity deindividuation effects (SIDE)	335
	Critical recap: Evolutionary approaches to aggression	312		Critical review of deindividuation	335
	Reflective questions	312		Box 9.11 In the news: The St Paul's riot of 1980	336
9.2	Situational approaches to aggression	312		Critical recap: Deindividuation	337
	Frustration–aggression hypothesis	312		Reflective questions	337
	Critical recap: Frustration–aggression hypothesis	313	9.7	Social identity theory and intergroup behaviour	337
	Reflective questions	313		Social identity content and chronic conflict	338
	Box 9.1 Focus: Temperature and aggression	314		Box 9.12 Focus: Summary of social identity theory and intergroup behaviour	339
	Leonard Berkowitz's aggressive and aversive stimuli and aggression	314		Box 9.13 In the news: The murder of Eugene Terre' Blanche	339
	Box 9.2 Focus: Media effects research	316		Critical review of social identity theory and intergroup behaviour	340
	Critical review of Leonard Berkowitz's aggressive and aversive stimuli and aggression	317		Box 9.14 Key researcher: Professor Rupert Brown: intergroup relations and prejudice	341
	Critical recap: Leonard Berkowitz's aggressive and aversive stimuli and aggression	318		Critical recap: Social identity theory and intergroup behaviour	343
	Reflective questions	318		Reflective questions	343
9.3	Dolf Zillmann's excitation transfer and aggression model	318	9.8	Realistic conflict theory	343
	Box 9.3 Focus: Does erotica increase or decrease aggression?	320		Box 9.15 Try it out: Intergroup conflict	343
	Box 9.4 Try it out: Arousal and aggression	321		Muzafer Sherif's summer camp studies	344
	Critical review of Dolf Zillmann's excitation transfer and aggression model	321		Critical review of realistic conflict theory	346
				Critical recap: Realistic conflict theory	347
				Reflective questions	347

9.9 Aggression and intergroup conflict – a critical appraisal	347	Critical recap: Stanley Milgram's studies of obedience	374
Are groups a negative influence on social behaviour?	347	Box 10.7 In the news: Prisoner abuse at Abu Ghraib	375
Defining aggression	348	Reflective questions	376
Process versus content	348	10.4 Professor Philip Zimbardo's Stanford prison experiment	376
Box 9.16 Try it out: Implicit definitions of aggression	348	What happened in the Stanford prison experiment?	376
Ideologies that justify aggression	349	Making sense of the Stanford prison experiment	378
Summary	349	Box 10.8 Focus: Classic research: Professor Philip Zimbardo's Stanford prison experiment	379
Review questions	350	Critical review of Professor Philip Zimbardo's Stanford prison experiment	382
Recommended reading	351	Critical recap: Professor Philip Zimbardo's Stanford prison experiment	383
Useful weblinks	351	Reflective questions	383
10 Social influence and intragroup processes	352	10.5 Rethinking social influence and the individual	383
Introduction	353	Box 10.9 Focus: Overview of the main types of social influence	384
Chapter overview	353	Judith Butler: social norms as our horizon and resource	384
10.1 Conformity	354	Michel Foucault: morality and practice of the self	384
Solomon Asch	355	Reflecting on Butler and Foucault	385
John Turner	356	Critical recap: Rethinking social influence and the individual	386
Box 10.1 Focus: Informational and normative influences	357	Reflective questions	386
Critical review of Asch's conformity experiments	358	Summary	386
Critical recap: Conformity	358	Review questions	387
Reflective questions	358	Recommended reading	387
10.2 Minority influence	359	Useful weblinks	388
Box 10.2 Focus: Moscovici's minority influence research	360	11 Communication and interaction	390
Box 10.3 Focus: Researching the spillover effect	361	Introduction	391
The spillover effect of minority influence	361	Chapter overview	391
Critical review of minority influence	362	11.1 Expressing attitudes and emotions	392
Box 10.4 Try it out: Minority influence	362	Albert Mehrabian	393
Critical recap: Minority influence	363	Box 11.1 Focus: Classic research: Non-verbal communication experiments (Mehrabian &amp; Ferris, 1967; Mehrabian &amp; Weiner, 1967)	394
Reflective questions	364	Michael Argyle	395
10.3 Stanley Milgram's studies of obedience	364	Box 11.2 Focus: Classic research: Message versus style of delivery (Argyle et al. 1970, 1971)	395
What happened in Milgram's experiments?	364
Variations in Milgram's experimental procedure	366
Box 10.5 Focus: Classic research: Overview of Milgram's obedience studies	366
Milgram's results	368
Making sense of Milgram's findings	369
Milgram's notion of the 'agentic state'	370
When people disobey	372
Box 10.6 In the news: Libyan pilots who did not obey their orders	373
Critical review of Stanley Milgram's studies of obedience	373

Facial expressions	397	designer of high-heel shoes' (based on Palomares, 2009)	409
Box 11.3 Focus: Classic research: Cross-cultural enactments of basic emotions (Ekman, 1980)	398	Multiple speech identities	409
Box 11.4 In the news: Are there tell-tale signs of deception?	399	The social construction of identity	411
Critical recap: Expressing attitudes and emotions	399	Critical recap: Communication and identity	413
Reflective questions	400	Reflective questions	413
11.2 Conveying information	400	11.5 Doing interaction	413
Critical recap: Conveying information	402	Box 11.8 Focus: Classic research: Gaze and speakership (Kendon, 1967)	415
Reflective questions	402	Box 11.9 Focus: Was Kendon (1967) right? The challenge from Beattie (1978) and Rutter et al. (1978)	416
11.3 Communication and relationships	402	Box 11.10 Focus: Goodwin (1980) speech perturbation and addressee gaze. Returning to Extract 11.6 (Goodwin, 1980, p. 278)	418
Michael Argyle and Janet Dean (1965)	402	Box 11.11 Key researcher: Professor Charles Goodwin: non-vocal interaction	420
Mark Knapp's model of the stages of interaction	404	Critical recap: Doing interaction	424
Box 11.5 Focus: Friends, Season 9, Episode 9	405	Reflective questions	424
Critical recap: Communication and relationships	406	Summary	424
Reflective questions	406	Review questions	425
11.4 Communication and identity	406	Recommended reading	425
Box 11.6 Try it out: Accent and identity	406	Useful weblinks	426
Comparisons of Standard English and dialects	407	Glossary	427
Speech accommodation	407	References	437
Social identities	408	Name index	455
Box 11.7 Focus: Examples of e-mails responding to the question 'Who is the best		Subject index	461