

Contents

| | |
|---|-----|
| Preface | vii |
| Rethinking the Population-Environment Debate | 1 |
| PART ONE | |
| Population and Environment: Overviews and Methodologies | |
| Introduction to Part One | 13 |
| 1 The Social Dimensions of Population, Lourdes Arizpe and Margarita Velázquez | 15 |
| 2 World Population Trends: Global and Regional Interactions Between Population and Environment, Wolfgang Lutz | 41 |
| 3 Women, Poverty and Population: Issues for the Concerned Environmentalists, Gita Sen | 67 |
| 4 The Gender and Environment Debate: Lessons from India, Bina Agarwal | 87 |
| 5 The Relation Between Population and Deforestation: Methods for Drawing Causal Inferences from Macro and Micro Studies, Alberto Palloni | 125 |

PART TWO

Population and Environment: Reviews and Case Studies

| | |
|--|-----|
| Introduction to Part Two | 169 |
| 6 Population Change and Agricultural Intensification in Developing Countries, Richard E. Bilsborrow and Martha Geores | 171 |
| 7 The Social Context of Land Degradation ("Desertification") in Dry Regions, Peter D. Little | 209 |
| 8 The Socioeconomic Matrix of Deforestation, Marianne Schmink | 253 |
| 9 Problems of Population and Environment in Extractive Economies, Stephen G. Bunker | 277 |
| 10 Urbanization and the Environment in Developing Countries: Latin America in Comparative Perspective, Bryan R. Roberts | 303 |

PART THREE

Population and Environment: Conclusions

| | |
|---|-----|
| 11 Conclusions: Rethinking the Population-Environment Debate | 339 |
| About the Editors and Contributors | 349 |
| Index | 351 |