

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	xi
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xxiii
A Homesteading Time Line	xxix
Introduction	i
1. Conversion	11
2. Getting (Not Too) Close to Nature	38
3. Homemade Ritual	63
Interlude: Interpreting Ambivalence: Homesteading as Spiritual and Cultural Work 102
4. The Reenchantment of the Farm: John Burroughs Goes Back to the Land	108

5. Scott Nearing and the Social Gospel
of Agriculture 139
6. Ambivalent Legacies I: The Dynamics of Engagement and Retreat 171
7. Ambivalent Legacies II: Gender, Class,
Nature, and Religion 201

Appendix: Of Hoes and Huckleberries:
A Note on Method 237

Notes 243

Selected Bibliography 309

Index 327

ILLUSTRATIONS

Frontispiece: Sign at the entrance to Helen and Scott Nearing's
Forest Farm in Maine

1. Helen and Scott Nearing's last stone house and garden in Maine xv
2. Bill Coperthwaite's main yurt 14
3. A stone wall in Helen's garden 44
4. Sal's homestead and sauna 46
5. Drawing from Payne Hollow, by Harlan Hubbard 71
6. John Burroughs in a field in front of Slabsides 122
7. John Burroughs at his desk at Slabsides 132
8. Scott Nearing, Frank Watson, and Nellie Seeds on the porch of Forest Lodge, at Arden 147
9. Scott Nearing at the Vermont homestead in the 1940s 165
10. Helen Nearing at the Vermont homestead in the 1940s 166
11. Helen sugaring in Vermont in 1937 169
12. Helen sorting tools 211
13. An article in The Silent Hostess by Myrtle Mae Borsodi 212
14. Signs at Helen Nearing's memorial service in October 1995 236