Critical Theory and Social Media

Between emancipation and commodification

Thomas Allmer

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group
LONDON AND NEW YORK

Contents

List of figures xvii
List of tables xix

Introduction 1

PART I
Theoretical foundations 13

1 Critical theory and dialectics 15
Introduction 15
Foundational concepts of a critical theory of media, technology, and society 16
The dialectics of productive forces and relations of production 26
Conclusion: means of communication as means of production 40

2 Critical Internet and social media studies 44
Introduction 44
Foundations of Internet and social media studies 47
Towards a critical theory of the Internet and social media 51
Conclusion: ideology and commodity critique 54

3 Critical (Internet) privacy studies: ideology critique 57
Introduction 57
Foundations of (Internet) privacy studies 58
Towards a critical theory of (Internet) privacy 69
Conclusion: capitalist privacy threats vs. corporate privacy protection 73

4 Critical (Internet) surveillance studies: commodity critique 75
Introduction 75
Foundations of (Internet) surveillance studies 76
Towards a critical theory of (Internet) surveillance 84
Conclusion: capitalist surveillance vs. counter-surveillance 95

PART II
Case study 99

5 Traditional and critical research of privacy and surveillance on social media 101
Introduction 101
Traditional research of privacy on social media 101
Critical research of surveillance on social media 109
Conclusion: a critical empirical study of privacy and surveillance on social media 118

6 Empirical results: (dis)advantages of social media 122
Introduction 122
General characteristics of the respondents 126
Advantages of social networking sites 128
Disadvantages of social networking sites 138
Conclusion 147

PART III
Techno-social revolution 149

7 Critical theory, dialectics, and the (dis)advantages of social media 151
Introduction 151
Foundational concepts of a critical theory of media, technology, and society and the (dis)advantages of social media 151
The dialectics of productive forces and relations of production and the (dis)advantages of social media 160
Conclusion 174

8 Conclusion 177
Technological constraints 178
Technological potentials 179
Social potentials 179
Social contraints 180
(Dis)like Facebook? Communication and network commons 181
Commons-based information society 182

Bibliography 187
Index 205

Figures

I.1	The development of the wage share in the United States	1
I.2	The development of profits in the United States	2
I.3	The development of Facebook's revenue	3
I.4	Praxio-Onto-Epistemology (POE)	8
1.1	Media, technology, and humans	17
1.2	Technology, society, and nature	18
1.3	Mutual shaping of society and technology	18
1.4	Dialectical relationship of base and superstructure	20
1.5	Different possibilities of technological and social design and assessment	25
1.6	Mode of production	26
1.7	Dialectical relationship of productive forces and relations of production	28
1.8	Different possibilities of productive forces and relations of production	39
1.9	Dialectical relationship of social (superstructure) media (base)	43
2.1	Privacy and surveillance critique as ideology and commodity critique	56
4.1	Production, circulation, and consumption as dialectically mediated spheres of the economy	88
6.1	Share in sample and at Austrian universities of fields of study	127
6.2	Highest educational achievement of respondents' parents	129
6.3	Greatest perceived advantages of social networking platforms	130
6.4	Greatest perceived advantages of social networking platforms and gender	135
6.5	Greatest perceived advantages of social networking platforms and level of study	136
6.6	Greatest perceived advantages of social networking platforms and field of study	137
6.7	Greatest perceived concerns of social networking platforms	138
6.8	Greatest perceived concerns of social networking platforms and gender	144

6.9 Greatest perceived concerns of social networking platforms and level of study 145
6.10 Greatest perceived concerns of social networking platforms and field of study 146
7.1 Different possibilities of design and assessment of the Internet/social media and society 159
7.2 Mode of production of social media 161
7.3 Different possibilities of productive forces and relations of production of social media 174
8.1 Inclusive relationship of Parts I, II, and III of this study 178
8.2 Technological and social constraints and potentials of digital and social media 181

Tables

1.1	Conceptions and explanations of the mode of production	27
2.1	Foundations of Internet and social media theory	52
3.1	Foundations of (Internet) privacy theory	70
4.1	Foundations of (Internet) surveillance theory	85
5.1	Traditional and critical research of privacy and surveillance on social media	119
6.1	Monthly income of respondents	128
6.2	Identified categories of greatest perceived advantages of social networking platforms	130
6.3	Examples of advantages listed by respondents	131
6.4	Identified categories of greatest perceived concerns of social networking platforms	139
6.5	Examples of concerns listed by respondents	140
7.1	Most accessed websites on the Internet	155
7.2	Most searched terms on Google in 2012 (worldwide)	157
7.3	Most popular pages by Likes on Facebook	158
7.4	Most viewed videos on YouTube	159
8.1	Ecological, technological, economic, political and cultural antagonisms in twenty-first-century capitalism	183