

Contents

Preface	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
List of Figures	xii
Preamble: Thinking Through Sound	xv
The time and place of sounding	xxiv
Body of sound	xxvii
Body of thought	xxix
The argument of Sonic Bodies	xxxii
Introduction: Practising and Theorising Sounding	1
1. The Dancehall Scene	3
Jamaican auditory culture	7
Three wavebands of sounding	19
Three-fold relationships	27
Theoretical context	30
2. Sound Systems	39
Instruments	42
Media	50
Techniques	59
Part 1. The Audio Engineer and the Material Waveband	63
3. Fine-tuning	65
Audio engineering	68
Manipulating	74

Monitoring	77
Evaluating	80
4. Learning to Listen	88
Learning to engineer	91
Apprenticeship tradition	94
A research methodology of listening	99
Sonic engineering	116
Part 2. The Selector and the Corporeal Waveband	123
5. Juggling	125
The selector's role and function in the session	129
Skilled performance techniques	134
6. Cut, Mix 'n' Rewind	147
Cut and splice	148
Mixing	155
Rewind and repetition	165
Part 3. The MC and the Sociocultural Waveband	173
7. Voicing	175
The MC's role in the session	177
Lyrical techniques	186
Performance tropes	191
Personality	199
8. Rhetoric and the Logic of Practice	207
An ancient art of communication	208
Ways of knowing	215
Situatedness	217
The logic of practice	227
Measure and value	235
9. Conclusion: The Sonic Logos	242
Know-what and know-how	244
Sounding a critique	246
Logos as ratio, proportion and patterning	254
Triangulation	265
Last Word: Dubwise	275
Notes	278
Bibliography	317
Index	349