

Contents

Preface	page ix
Contributors	xiii
Introduction Dirk Hoerder	1

PART I

CONTINUITY AND COMPLEXITY: MIGRATIONS FROM EAST ELBIAN GERMANY AND GALICIAN POLAND

1 German Emigration Research, North, South, and East: Findings, Methods, and Open Questions Walter D. Kamphoefner	19
2 Colonist Traditions and Nineteenth-Century Emigration from East Elbian Prussia Rainer Mühle	35
3 Overseas Emigration from Mecklenburg-Strelitz: The Geographic and Social Contexts Axel Lubinski	57
4 Emigration from Regierungsbezirk Frankfurt/Oder, 1815–1893 Uwe Reich	79
5 Preserving or Transforming Role? Migrants and Polish Territories in the Era of Mass Migrations Adam Walaszek	101

PART II

INTERNAL GERMAN MIGRATIONS AND IN-MIGRATIONS

6 Traveling Workers and the German Labor Movement Horst Rössler	127
---	-----

7 Migration in Duisburg, 1821–1914	James H. Jackson, Jr.	147
8 In-Migration and Out-Migration in an Area of Heavy Industry: The Case of Georgsmarienhütte, 1856–1870	Susanne Meyer	177
9 Foreign Workers in and around Bremen, 1884–1918	Karl Marten Barfuss	201

PART III
WOMEN'S MIGRATION:
LABOR AND MARRIAGE MARKETS

10 The International Marriage Market: Theoretical and Historical Perspectives	Suzanne M. Sinke	227
11 Making Service Serve Themselves: Immigrant Women and Domestic Service in North America, 1850–1920	Joy K. Lintelman	249
12 German Domestic Servants in America, 1850–1914: A New Look at German Immigrant Women's Experiences	Silke Wehner	267
13 Acculturation of Immigrant Women in Chicago at the Turn of the Twentieth Century	Deirdre M. Mageean	295

PART IV
ACCULTURATION IN AND RETURN FROM THE UNITED STATES

14 Communicating the Old and the New: German Immigrant Women and Their Press in Comparative Perspective around 1900	Monika Blaschke	313
15 Return Migration to an Urban Center: The Example of Bremen, 1850–1914	Karen Schniedewind	329
16 Migration, Ethnicity, and Working-Class Formation: Passaic, New Jersey, 1889–1926	Sven Beckert	347
17 Changing Gender Roles and Emigration: The Example of German Jewish Women and Their Emigration to the United States, 1933–1945	Sibylle Quack	379
Conclusion: Migration Past and Present – The German Experience	Klaus J. Bade	399

Research on the German Migrations, 1820s to 1930s:

A Report on the State of German Scholarship

Dirk Hoerder

413

Index

423