

Contents

---

Acknowledgments . . . . . ix

Introduction . . . . . xi

George J. Sefa Dei and Meredith Lordan

Chapter 1

Reframing Critical Anti-Racist Theory (CART) for Contemporary Times. . . . . i

George J. Sefa Dei

Chapter 2

The Race to Self: Critical Anti-Racism Theory in a Global Change Era—Lessons from Rio+20 — the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development . . . . . 5

Meredith Lordan

Chapter 3

When Blackness Shows Up Uninvited: Examining the Murder of Trayvon Martin through Fanonian Racial Interpellation . . . . . 25

Paul Banahene Adjei

Chapter 4

The Smack of Self-Determination: A Fanonian Analysis of the Africentric Schooling Debate in Toronto. . . . . 43

Philip S. S. Howard

Chapter 5

Schooling, Interrupted: What France’s Last Sociologist Might Have Said about Canada’s First Black-focused School . . . . . 69

Shaun Chen

Chapter 6
Race Erased? Arizona’s Ban on Ethnic Studies .....81
    Brandy Jensen

Chapter 7
Situating My Standpoint: My Relationship to Black Feminist Thought as an Indo-Caribbean Canadian Woman of Color .....101
    Preeceia Surajbali

Chapter 8
Understanding the Pathology and Cure for Euro-Colonial Whiteness:
A Psychological, Behavioral, and Systemic Analysis .....121
    Jozef Konyari

Chapter 9
Embodiment and the Spatialization of Race .....153
    Mairi McDermott and Marlon Simmons

Chapter 10
Black Males and Exclusionary Schooling Practices:
‘Common-Sense’ Racism and the Need for a Critical Anti-Racist Approach . . . .169
    Kathleen Conroy

Chapter 11
Conclusion: Where Does Critical Anti-Racism Theory Lead Us?
Considering Educational, Policy, and Community Implications .....183
    George J. Sefa Dei and Meredith Lordan

About the Contributors. ....187