

Content

List of Figures.....	12
List of Tables.....	13
Abbreviations.....	14
Interview Codes.....	14
1. Introduction.....	15
2. Organizational Learning from Boundary-spanning Activities.....	21
Bringing the Environment into Theories of Organizational Learning.....	21
Linking External Changes with Internal Dynamics in Organizations.....	22
The Notion of Boundary-spanning Activities.....	24
Processes of Organizational Learning.....	28
Stages in Processes of Organizational Learning.....	31
Weaknesses of Conceptualizing Organizational Learning in Terms of Stages.....	33
Toward a Contextualized Model of Organizational Learning.....	34
Knowledge Acquisition through Boundary-spanning Activities.....	35
Boundary-spanning Activities and the Distribution of Knowledge.....	37
Boundary-spanning Activities and the Interpretation of Knowledge.....	39
Boundary-spanning Activities and Organizational Memory.....	43
Emerging Theoretical Model and Implications for Research.....	45
3. Research Design, Context, and Methodology.....	47
Research Design.....	47
Research Context.....	49
The 1ST Program.....	49
The Management of the 1ST Program.....	52
Focal Boundary-spanning Activities.....	56
Methodology.....	57

Data Collection.....	57
Analysis of the Data.....	61
4. Learning from Boundary-spanning Activities with ISTAG.....	63
The Role of ISTAG in the Management of the 1ST Program.....	63
The Rise of Organizational Learning Needs.....	64
Acquiring Knowledge from ISTAG.....	66
Providing a Vision for the 1ST Program.....	66
Tailoring Knowledge Provision to Learning Needs.....	69
The F6 Unit as ISTAG's Advocate.....	73
Distributing the Knowledge Acquired from ISTAG.....	75
The Linkage between ISTAG Activities and Internal Dynamics of DG INFSO.....	75
Facilitators of and Barriers to the Distribution of the Acquired Knowledge.....	80
Interpreting the Knowledge Acquired from ISTAG.....	82
Making Sense of the Acquired Knowledge within the Context of DG INFSO.....	82
The Impact of Organizational Politics on Knowledge Interpretation.....	84
The Organizational Memory and the Knowledge Acquired from ISTAG.....	85
Challenges to Established Structures in DG INFSO.....	85
Inertia in DG INFSO.....	89
Summary of the Main Findings.....	91
5. Learning from Boundary-spanning Activities with ISTC.....	93
The Role of ISTC in Managing the 1ST Program.....	93
Prescribed Learning Needs.....	95
Acquiring Knowledge from ISTC.....	96
Gaining Access to Policy-oriented Knowledge.....	97
Limits to the Knowledge-seeking Behavior of DG INFSO.....	99
Channeling of Policy-oriented Knowledge into DG INFSO.....	102
Distribution and Interpretation of the Knowledge Acquired from ISTC.....	105

Barriers to the Wide Distribution of the Acquired Knowledge in DG INFSO.....	105
Relevance of the Acquired Knowledge in DG INFSO.....	109
Organizational Memory and the Knowledge Acquired from ISTC.....	112
Stability in the Implementation of the 1ST Program.....	112
Taking Regulations for Granted.....	114
Summary of the Main Findings.....	115
6. Discussion of the Empirical Evidence in Light of Theory.....	117
Variations in Processes of Organizational Learning.....	118
The Rise of Organizational Learning Needs.....	119
Knowledge Acquisition.....	121
Distribution.....	125
Interpretation.....	129
Organizational Memory.....	132
Concluding Comments.....	134
Distinctive Qualities of Organizational Learning Triggered by Boundary-spanning Activities.....	136
Overlapping Stages in Processes of Organizational Learning.....	138
6. Conclusions.....	141
The Study in Retrospect.....	141
Processes of Learning in the European Commission.....	142
The Learning Behavior of the European Commission.....	143
Policy Sector Matters for Learning from Boundary-spanning Activities.....	145
Theoretical Implications of the Impact of Boundary-spanning Activities on Organizational Learning.....	147
The Formation of Learning through Boundary-spanning Activities.....	148
Complementarities in the Contextualized Learning Model.....	150
Organizational Learning and the Institutionalization of Organizational Life.....	152
References.....	155

List of Figures

Figure 2.1 Constructs and processes associated with organizational learning.....	30
Figure 2.2 A contextualized model of organizational learning.....	46
Figure 3.1 A simple model of social research.....	48
Figure 3.3 Management process Information Society Technologies (IST) Program.....	54
Figure 4.1 Support of ISTAG activities by the F6 unit.....	73
Figure 4.2 The F6 unit as an advocate of ISTAG.....	75
Figure 4.3 The main DGINFSO actors involved in drafting the annual work program.....	77
Figure 5.1 Dialogue with the Information Society Technologies Management Committee.....	97
Figure 5.2 Factors limiting the relevance of ISTC input.....	110
Figure 6.1 Overlaps and distinctions in processes of organizational learning.....	140

List of Tables

Table 2.1 Social constitution of boundary-spanning roles in changing environments.....	26
Table 2.2 Sources of power and how they are acted upon in organizations.....	41
Table 3.1 The Information Society Technologies (IST) Program.....	51
Table 3.2 Human resources of DG INFSO ³	57
Table 3.3 Distribution of interviews.....	58
Table 3.4 Shifting emphasis in the data collection.....	60
Table 4.1 Advisory reports of ISTAG during the 5 th Framework Program.....	70
Table 5.1 Uncertainty reduction at two levels and its constituent elements.....	108
Table 6.1 Summary of the main findings.....	118
Table 6.2 Filtering and channeling relevant knowledge into DG INFSO.....	123
Table 6.3 Facilitators and barriers to the wide distribution of knowledge.....	127
Table 6.4 Interpretation of knowledge acquired through boundary-spanning activities.....	130
Table 6.5 Embedded learning from boundary-spanning activities.....	135