

Contents

---

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	ix
INTRODUCTION	1
 PART ONE: THE FORCE OF CIRCUMSTANCE?	 13
1. Decline and Fall The French Intellectual Community at the End of the Third Republic	15
2. In the Light of Experience The "Lessons" of Defeat and Occupation	26
3. Resistance and Revenge The Semantics of Commitment in the Aftermath of Liberation	45
4. What Is Political Justice? Philosophical Anticipations of the Cold War	75
 PART TWO: THE BLOOD OF OTHERS	 99
5. Show Trials Political Terror in the East European Mirror, 1947-1953	101

6. The Blind Force of History The Philosophical Case for Terror	117
7. Today Things Are Clear Doubts, Dissent, and Awakenings	139
PART THREE: THE TREASON OF THE INTELLECTUALS	151
8. The Sacrifices of the Russian People A Phenomenology of Intellectual Russophilia	153
9. About the East We Can Do Nothing Of Double Standards and Bad Faith	168
10. America Has Gone Mad Anti-Americanism in Historical Perspective	187
11. We Must Not Disillusion the Workers On the Self-Abnegation and Elective Affinities of the Intellectual	205
PART FOUR: THE MIDDLE KINGDOM	227
12. Liberalism, There Is the Enemy On Some Peculiarities of French Political Thought	229
13. Gesta Dei per Francos The Frenchness of French Intellectuals	246
14. Europe and the French Intellectuals The Responsibilities of Power	275
CONCLUSION: GOODBYE TO ALL THAT?	293
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	321
INDEX	335