Contents

Preface xi
Abbreviations xv
List of Figures and Plates xvii

Chapter 1. Introduction 1

Part I

Chapter 2. Black Monks in the Southern Low Countries (900-1200) 17

The First Wave of Reforms (Late Ninth-Late Tenth Century) 19
The Second Wave of Reforms (Mid-Eleventh Century) 22
The Third Wave of Reforms (Late Eleventh and Early Twelfth Century) 28
The Fourth Wave of Reforms (the Mid-Twelfth Century) 31
The End of the Twelfth Century 34
Conclusion 35

Chapter 3. Research Parameters for Manuscript Analysis 37

Manuscript Production 39
Relations between Scriptoria 43
Manuscript Layout between Structure and Agency 46
The Communicative Possibilities of Manuscript Layout 48
Codicological Composition 49
Manuscript Dimensions 51

Legibility, Writing Intensity and Exploitation 53
Tables of Contents 57
Titles and Rubrics 60
Use of Colours 61
Initials 63
Punctuation and Litterae Notabiliores 69
Miniatures, Illustrations and Sketches 74
Value 75
Conclusion 76

Part II

Chapter 4. The Layout of Hagiographical Manuscripts 81

The Scriptorium as Parameter for Manuscript Analysis 82
The Utility of 'House Styles' for Manuscript Analysis 86
Conclusion: The Scriptorium as Parameter? 94
A Diachronic Framework as Parameter for Manuscript Analysis 96
The 'Monastic Period' and the 'Revolution of the Twelfth Century' 97
The Development of Surface Area and Exploitation 99
The Development of Punctuation 101
The Development of Initials and Use of Colours 102
Conclusion: Diachronic Analysis as Parameter 104
Manuscript Genres as Parameter for Manuscript Analysis 106
Libelli 106
Lectionaries and Legendaries 115
The Monastic Library as Parameter of Manuscript Analysis 120
Conclusion 125

Chapter 5. The Composition of Hagiographical Manuscripts 129

The Audience of High Medieval Hagiography 130
The Composition and Functionality of Hagiographical Manuscripts 135
Three Models for the Selection of Scripta for a Manuscript 136
Shaping a Manuscript 140
The Manuscript as a Narrative Unit 145

Case Study: The Development of St.-Ghislain's Library 148
Five Manuscripts from the Library of St.-Ghislain 151
Why Were These Manuscripts Produced? 164
Production Values 166
Conclusion 173

Chapter 6. Rewriting 177

Changing the Meaning of a Scriptum: Text 181
Conceptualising a Quantitative Approach 183
A Quantitative Approach: Some Preliminary Results 191
Changing the Meaning of a Scriptum: Illumination, Layout, and Paratext 202
Reworking the Illumination of a Scriptum 205
Reworking the Layout of a Scriptum 209
Reworking the Codicological Setting of a Scriptum 213
Reworking the Paratext of a Scriptum 215
Lachmannian Terminology and Its Problems 222
Lachmannian Terminology 225
From Work to Scriptum 230
Towards a Reconceptualisation of the Work 234
Conclusion 237

Chapter 7. Contextualisation and Monastic Networks 241

Tenth-Century Networks (931-1007) 246
Mid Eleventh-Century Networks (1008-1075) 251
Manuscripts in an Age of Reform 253
Late Eleventh-Century Networks (1075-1125) 256
Cautious Supra-Regional Contacts 262
Twelfth-Century Networks (1125-1200) 264
Organisational Influence of the Early Cistercians on the Southern Low Countries 266
Manuscript Influence of the Early Cistercians on the Southern Low Countries 269
Network Formation among Benedictines in the Southern Low Countries 273

Conclusion 279

Part III

Chapter 8. Case Study: Marchiennes and Anchin 285

Manuscript Communication in the Marchiennes Reform (1024) 287
The Construction of a Reform Manuscript 291
Constructing a Library 313
Manuscript Identity in Anchin and Marchiennes 316
Manuscripts and Identity in Anchin 318
Identity Formation in Marchiennes 320
A New Way of Manuscript Transmission 323
Copying Entire Manuscripts 326
Comparing the Libraries of Anchin and Marchiennes 331
A Growing Awareness of Genre 335
Conclusion 340

Chapter 9. Genre Consciousness and the Use of Hagiography 343

Developments in the Liturgy 347
Did the Liturgy Influence Hagiography? 348
The Development of Liturgical and Semi-Liturgical Manuscripts 353
The Developing Function of Hagiography within the Monastery 372
Manuscripts with a Formal Ordering That Were Read Formally 375
Manuscripts with a Narrative Ordering that Were Read Informally 376
Manuscripts with a Narrative Ordering that Were Read Formally 377
A Diachronic Perspective 384
Conclusion 387

Chapter 10. Conclusion 389

Appendices 397

Appendix to Chapter 3 397
Appendix to Chapter 4 404
Appendix to Chapter 5 412
Appendix to Chapter 6 414
Appendix to Chapter 9 423

Glossary 427

Bibliography 435

Edited Sources 435
Literature Cited 439

Index of Manuscripts 471
General Index 475

Plates 489