

Contents

	Preface	vii
	Contributors	ix
1	Shifting imaginaries: decolonization, internal decolonization, postcoloniality Jan Nederveen Pieterse and Bhikhu Parekh	1
	PART ONE Imaginaries of domination	21
2	Continuities in imagination Marion O'Callaghan	22
3	'Dying races': rationalizing genocide in the nineteenth century Patrick Brantlinger	43
4	Ethnographic showcases, 1870–1930 Raymond Corbey	57
5	Liberalism and colonialism: a critique of Locke and Mill Bhikhu Parekh	81
6	Samurai and self-colonization in Japan Hiroshi Yoshioka	99
7	Metaphors and the Middle East: crisis discourse on Gaza Toine van Teeffelen	113
	PART TWO Imaginaries of cultural pluralism	127
8	'Mixed-bloods' and the cultural politics of European identity in colonial Southeast Asia Ann Stoler	128
9	Patterns of exclusion: imaginaries of class, nation, ethnicity and gender in Europe Jan Berting	149
10	Culture wars in the United States: closing reflections on the century of the colour line: Ronald Takaki	166
11	Teaching for the times Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak	177

	PART THREE Global imaginaries	203
12	The emerging Metastate versus the politics of ethno-nationalist identity Sol Yurick	204
13	The self wandering between cultural localization and globalization Susantha Goonatilake	225
	Index	240