

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction:	The Foreign Other in China—The Case of American Migrants 1
Chapter One:	Conceptualizing the Other-Identity during Intercultural Encounters 17
Chapter Two:	Research Design Guided by Grounded Theory 35
Chapter Three:	Exoticized Otherness Rising from Objectification, Homogenization, and Alienation 51
Chapter Four:	Stereotyped Otherness Formulated by Fantasization, Underestimation, and Stigmatization 75
Chapter Five:	Ostracized Otherness Emerging from Social Estrangement and Cultural Dissociation 101
Conclusion:	Rethinking about Othering from the Other's Perspective 139
Appendices	173
Index	205