

Contents

List of figures	page ix
Acknowledgments	x
Introduction	I
1 Collective intentionality and the construction of the social world	5
1.1 Wide and narrow social constructivism	5
1.2 The contents of this book	9
2 Collective intentionality	17
2.1 Introduction to collective intentionality	17
2.2 Collective intentions surveyed	18
2.3 Shared we-attitudes	22
2.4 Collective intention to act together	26
2.5 Mutual belief	33
Appendix: the we-mode and the I-mode	36
3 Conceptual activity, rule following, and social practices	40
3.1 Introduction	40
3.2 Sellars on conceptual activity	43
3.3 Can conceptuality be noncircularly characterized?	48
3.4 Elementary conceptual activity	52
3.5 Collective pattern-governed behavior	55
3.6 Are social practices required for conceptuality?	64
3.7 Conclusion	76
4 An account of social practices	78
4.1 Introduction	78
4.2 Collective social action	80
4.3 What are social practices?	89
4.4 Theses regarding core social practices	99
4.5 Presuppositional and motivational reasons	108

4.6	Customs and other kinds of social practices	113
4.7	Conclusion	121
5	A Collective Acceptance account of collective-social notions
5.1	Introduction	122
5.2	The basic features of the Collective Acceptance account	122
5.3	The Collective Acceptance account made precise	125
5.4	Collective commitment	136
5.5	Qualifications and additions	141
5.6	Collective acceptance as shared we-attitude	144
5.7	Conclusion	151
		154
6	Social institutions
6.1	Social institutions introduced	156
6.2	The basic ideas	156
6.3	The final account	162
6.4	Searle on social institutions	167
6.5	Social organizations and institutional social practices	183
6.6	Conclusion	186
	Appendix: Institution concepts as reflexive concepts	192
		194
7	Social practices in a dynamic context: a mathematical analysis
7.1	Introduction	201
7.2	Preconditions of social practices	201
7.3	States and sentences	203
7.4	Frames	205
7.5	Social practices mathematically analyzed	208
7.6	Towards a social dynamics	211
7.7	The individual level	214
7.8	An example of a social practice	218
7.9	Social norms, task-right systems, and social institutions	220
7.10	Conclusion	221
		232
	Epilogue
		234
	Notes
	References	237
	Index	266
		272

Figures

1	Collective social action	page 90
2	Pattern of a social practice	212
3	Flowchart of social dynamics	216
4	Developed flowchart of social dynamics	217
5	Social institution model	230
6	Normatively admitted practices	231