Contents

List of figures		page ix
	knowledgments	x
	Introduction	I
I	Collective intentionality and the construction of the social world	5
	1.1 Wide and narrow social constructivism	5
	1.2 The contents of this book	9
2	Collective intentionality	17
	2.1 Introduction to collective intentionality	17
	2.2 Collective intentions surveyed	81
	2.3 Shared we-attitudes	22
	2.4 Collective intention to act together	26
	2.5 Mutual belief	33
	Appendix: the we-mode and the I-mode	36
3	Conceptual activity, rule following, and social practices	40
	3.1 Introduction	40
	3.2 Sellars on conceptual activity	43
	3.3 Can conceptuality be noncircularly characterized?	48
	3.4 Elementary conceptual activity	52
	3.5 Collective pattern-governed behavior	55 64 76
	3.6 Are social practices required for conceptuality?	64
	3.7 Conclusion	76
4	An account of social practices	78
-	4.1 Introduction	78
	4.2 Collective social action	80
	4.3 What are social practices?	89
	4.4 Theses regarding core social practices	99
	4.5 Presuppositional and motivational reasons	108

Contents

4.6 Customs and other kinds of and 1
<ul><li>4.6 Customs and other kinds of social practices</li><li>4.7 Conclusion</li></ul>	113
	121
5 A Collective Acceptance account of colle notions	ective-social
5.1 Introduction	122
5.2 The basic features of the Collective Acceptar	122
5-3 The Collective Acceptance account made pr
5.4 Collective commitment	ecise 136
5.5 Qualifications and additions	141
5.6 Collective acceptance as shared we-attitude	144
5.7 Conclusion	151
6 Social institutions	154
	156
a south mistiguious miroduced	156
<ul><li>6.2 The basic ideas</li><li>6.3 The final account</li></ul>	162
6.4 Searle on social institutions	167
- Institution	o ·
6.5 Social organizations and institutional social pr 6.6 Conclusion	ractices 186
Appendix: Institution concepts as reflexive cor	192
7 Social practices in a dynamic context: a m analysis	athematical
7.1 Introduction	201
7.2 Preconditions of social practices	201
7.3 States and sentences	203
7.4 Frames	205
7.5 Social practices mathematically analyzed	208
7.0 Towards a social dynamics	211
7.7 The individual level	214
7.8 An example of a social practice	218 220
7.9 Social norms, task-right systems, and social ins	titutions 22I
7.10 Conclusion	232
Epilogue	-3-
r-sque	234
Notes
References	<sup>2</sup> 37
Index	266
	272

Figures

I	Collective social action	page 90
2	Pattern of a social practice	212
3	Flowchart of social dynamics	216
4	Developed flowchart of social dynamics	217
5	Social institution model	230
6	Normatively admitted practices	231