

Contents

Preface	vii
Abbreviations	xi
Part I. Theoretical Framework and Issues
1. From Santiago to Seattle: Transnational Advocacy Groups Restructuring World Politics Sanjeev Khagram, James V. Riker, and Kathryn Sikkink	3
2. Infrastructures for Change: Transnational Organizations, 1953–93 Kathryn Sikkink and Jackie Smith	24
Part II. Influencing Human Rights Discourse, Policy, and Practice
3. Human Rights Norms and Networks in Authoritarian Chile Darren Hawkins	47
4. Human Rights in U.S. Foreign Policy Daniel C. Thomas	71
5. Women's Rights Are Human Rights Karen Brown Thompson	96
6. A Human Rights Practitioner's Perspective Charles T. Call	123
Part III. Promoting Development, Environmental Protection, and Governance
7. Agendas, Accountability, and Legitimacy among Transnational Networks Lobbying the World Bank Paul J. Nelson	131

8. Proclaiming Jubilee: The Debt and Structural Adjustment Network Elizabeth A. Donnelly	155
9. NGOs, Transnational Networks, International Donor Agencies, and the Prospects for Democratic Governance in Indonesia James V. Riker	181
10. Restructuring the Global Politics of Development: The Case of India's Narmada Valley Dams Sanjeev Khagram	206
11. Globalization, Global Alliances, and the Narmada Movement Smitu Kothari	231
Part IV. Organizing Labor
12. Marx and Engels: The Prototypical Transnational Actors August Nimtz	245
13. Networks in Transnational Labor Organizing Thalia G. Kidder	269
14. A Practitioner's Perspective Mark Ritchie	294
Part V. Conclusions
15. Restructuring World Politics: The Limits and Asymmetries of Soft Power Kathryn Sikkink	301
Bibliography	319
Contributors	353
Index	357