

Contents

Foreword	1
----------------	---

OPENING LECTURE

Patricia Lysaght SIEF International Ethnological Food Research Group: Genesis, Aims and Progress	5
---	---

PART I: THE INTERNET AS LOCAL, NATIONAL AND GLOBAL COOKBOOK AND CULINARY RESEARCH TOOL

Violetta Krawczyk-Wasilewska A Global Food Tale in the Age of the Internet	23
--	----

Silke Bartsch, Christine Brombach and Gertrud Winkler The Role of Internet Recipes in Cooking	33
---	----

Aristea Baschali and Antonia-Leda Matalas The Comeback of Homemade Foods and the Role of the Web. The Case of Non-Alcoholic Fermented Beverages	45
--	----

Maja Godina Golija When Old Meets New. The Demonstration of Traditional Slovene Dishes and Locally Produced Food on the Internet	55
---	----

Aleksandra Krupa-Lawrynowicz Mushrooms: Polish Traditions and Modern Practices. Online Examples	65
---	----

PART II: FOOD, MARKETING, AND THE INTERNET

Déirdre D'Auria and Patricia Lysaght The Online Promotion of Irish Food as a Tourist Attraction	77
---	----

Manon Boulianne and Claudia Laviolette Virtual Food Representations. An Analysis of "Local Food" Discourse in Quebec	93
---	----

Naoto Minami Communication of Food Information by Means of the Internet in Contemporary Japan	103
--	-----

Fionnuala Carson Williams

The Use of Proverbs in the Promotion of Food on the Internet 115

Ewa Kopczyńska

Novelty with a Traditional Twist: Food Co-Operatives as Short Food Chains in the Global Network 125

Anna Mlekodaj

A Local Food Product and the Ethno-Future: The Online Case of Polish Mountaineers' Regional Cheese "Oscypek" 133

PART III: THE INTERNET AND FOOD VALUES: ETHICS, AESTHETICS, ENVIRONMENT, HEALTH AND LIFESTYLE

Una A. Robertson

Slow Food: Scotland 143

Ivanche Dimitrievski, Philippos Papadopoulos and Rodica Arpasanu

Should the Mediterranean Diet be Viewed as a Fully-Fledged Public Discourse, or as Part of a Wider Food and Wellness Narrative? An Internet-Based Study 151

Yrsa Lindqvist

Seasonal Food in a Virtual Basket – A Campaign for Environmental Sustainability 163

Astra Spalvēna

Picture Me Perfect: The Aesthetics of Food in Online Photographs 173

Rafał Pilarek

"Cabane à Sucre" on the Internet 183

PART IV: FOOD, GENDER, IDENTITY AND THE INTERNET

Rogéria Campos de Almeida Dutra

When Men go to the Kitchen: Food and Gender in Brazilian Websites 193

Laura Solanilla and F. Xavier Medina

Gastronomy and Social Networks: Heritage and Food Blogging in Catalonia 201

Magdalena Tomaszewska – Bolałek

Homo Gourmand and Homo Cooking: Two Main Culinary Tribes of the Internet Era 209

PART V: FOOD BLOGGING AS A NEW GENRE

Anikó Báti

Cooking Know-How: Virtual and Personal Transmission of Skills.

A Hungarian Example 221

Katarzyna Orszulak-Dudkowska

Food Blogs in Relation to Culinary Tradition. A Polish Example 231

Klaudyna Hebda

Food – Blogging – Identity: Free Expression or Lifetime Project? 241

PART VI: FOOD: ANCIENT AND MEDIEVAL IN THE LIGHT
OF INTERNET SOURCE*Zofia Rzeźnicka*

Ancient and Byzantine Food and the Internet 253

Johanna Maria van Winter

A Database of Medieval Plant Names 263

List of Contributors 271