
Contents

| | |
|------------------------------|------|
| List of illustrations | viii |
| Acknowledgments | x |

PART I

| | |
|---|----------|
| Theories and authority | I |
| 1 Studying religion through practice | 3 |
| Attributing religious motives | 3 |
| What is “religion”? | 5 |
| Do Japanese have “religion”? | 8 |
| An anthropological approach to religion | 9 |
| Practices, contexts, and diversity | 12 |
| Conclusions | 14 |
| 2 Social theory and the anthropology of religion | 15 |
| Religion and mind | 15 |
| Religions in social life | 21 |
| Religion, power, and ethics | 28 |
| Conclusions | 30 |
| 3 Authority and centralization | 32 |
| Transcendence and centralization in the Axial Age | 32 |
| European expansion and the development of “religion” | 35 |
| Spirits, Buddha, and the Japanese state | 41 |
| Conclusions | 50 |
| 4 States, secularisms, and religions | 52 |
| Secularisms and religions in modern states | 52 |
| Religion and public life in the United States | 54 |
| Three European variants | 58 |
| When religion underlies law | 61 |
| Conclusions | 67 |

PART II

| | |
|--|-----------|
| Materialities and morality | 71 |
| 5 Meanings and materiality | 73 |
| Christian materialities | 73 |
| Hindu forms of worship | 76 |
| The Vedic roots of Indian sacrifice | 80 |
| Bathing at Benares | 84 |
| Conclusions | 87 |
| 6 Material transformations in Catholicism | 88 |
| Relics and images | 88 |
| Mary in Europe | 93 |
| Jesus, Mary, and the nation-state | 100 |
| Conclusions | 101 |
| 7 Transatlantic religions | 103 |
| Mary in Mesoamerica | 103 |
| Africa and Brazil across the Atlantic | 106 |
| The Black Atlantic | 110 |
| Conclusions | 113 |
| 8 Embodiment and materiality in healing | 114 |
| "Biolooping" in Brazilian Candomblé | 114 |
| Trance in Japanese "New Religions" | 116 |
| Healing through narratives | 121 |
| Conclusions | 123 |
| 9 Embodied harmfulness | 124 |
| African malevolent substances | 125 |
| Witches in Eastern Indonesia | 132 |
| Sorcery and reciprocity in New Guinea | 133 |
| Puritan witchcraft | 135 |
| The Salem outbreak of 1692 | 137 |
| Conclusions | 140 |
| 10 Boundaries: shaping time, space, and selves | 142 |
| Rites of passage | 142 |
| From spirit to household god in Japan | 144 |
| Regenerating life from death | 146 |
| Taboos and boundaries | 151 |
| Jewish ritual life | 154 |
| Ultraorthodox Jewish communities | 157 |
| Conclusions | 162 |

PART IIILanguages and movement 165*11 Speech and grace in Protestantism 167The letter and the spirit of scripture* 168*Election and signs* 170*Singing and uncertainty among U.S. primitive Baptists* 172*Charismatic and Pentecostal churches* 175*Encounters and conversions* 178*Conclusions* 18312 Revelation and authority in Islam 186The Qur'ân as recitation of God's speech* 187*Authority* 193*Who rules after Muhammad?* 194*Sacrifice: interpretations and adaptations* 196*Ethical life* 200*Conclusions* 20113 Virtual religion 202What can you do online?* 202*Information, communication and performance* 206*Experience and community* 212*Comparative cyber-communities* 216*Conclusions* 21814 Migration and diaspora 220Hindu and Muslim cases* 221*Migrations and transnational ties* 225*Adapting sacrifice to France* 230*Can European societies accept Islam?* 233*Conclusions* 23615 Religious mobilizing 239Revitalization movements* 239*Cults, recruitment, and violence* 244*Hindu-Muslim violence in India* 249*Why do people join violent movements?* 253*Conclusions* 256Index 258