

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
1 Discovering Intimacy on Facebook	8
Positioning Facebook	8
Friends and lovers	9
Intimate disclosures	15
Public intimacy	19
2 Frameworks: Privacy, Performance, Social Capital	29
Fuzzy privacy	29
Awareness, concern, and agency	30
Social privacy	34
Cyber-Goffman: reconfiguring the 'situation'	37
Controlling the self and the situation	39
The mediated self: acting without author	44
Social capital and the moment of exchange	46
3 Methodology	50
Participants	50
Ethnographic and Grounded Theory methods	51
4 The Performance of Connection	57
Dialogical focus	58
Identification through the performance of connection	60
Social capital in performances of connection	67
Figurative private spatialisation	71
5 Distant Intimacy	77
Facebook as 'trans-mobile' space	78
Defeating loss	80
Mediated publicity and distant intimacy	83
Occasional identification and the role of triggers	86
Distance, identity drift, and conflict	91
6 Prosthetic Intimacy	95
Forms of surveillance	95
Surveillance as tacit routine	96

Surveillance as indeterminate vision	98
Self-conscious surveillance	98
The contradictions of spying	99
Estranged ties and the prosthetic intimacy	103
First-hand judgement	110
7 When Insecurity Looms	115
Heterogeneous publicity: removing ties from time	115
Amorphous risk	121
Possessing the intimate self	123
The desire not to see	128
Socio-ontological insecurity	131
Alienation through connection	135
Where is the real world?	138
Audience capture in an economy of attention	141
8 Negotiating Intimacy	145
Organising connection	146
Rules of identification	149
Resources of identification	152
Intimacy capital	153
Relational capital	153
Memory capital	154
Cultural capital	155
Performance context	155
Subject form and matter	156
Media used	156
Social relationality	158
Solo performances	159
Dyadic performances	161
Group-based performances	161
Ego-propping	161
Resultant sociality	164
Remembering	165
Esteem	167
Playfulness	169
Conclusion	176
 Notes	 185
Bibliography	187
Index	199