

Hunter-Gatherers of the Congo Basin

Cultures, Histories, and
Biology of African Pygmies

Barry S. Hewlett, editor

Transaction Publishers

New Brunswick (U.S.A.) and London (U.K.)

Contents

List of Tables	vii
List of Figures	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Foreword Luigi Luca Cavalli-Sforza	xiii
Introduction Barry S. Hewlett	xvii
1 Cultural Diversity of African Pygmies Serge Bahuchet	1
2 Population Genetics of Central African Pygmies and Non-Pygmies Paul Verdu	31
3 On Late Holocene Population Interactions in the Northwestern Congo Basin: When, How, and Why Does the Ethnographic Pattern Begin? Karen Lupo, Alfred Jean-Paul Ndanga, and Christopher Kiahtipes	59
4 "Do Pygmies Have a History?" Revisited: The Autochthonous Tradition in the History of Equatorial Africa Robert E. Moïse	85
5 Human Biology and the Health of African Rainforest Inhabitants Alain Froment	117
6 The Foraging Lifestyle in the African Tropical Rainforest Hiroaki Sato	165

7	Diversity in Pygmy Music: A Family Portrait Susanne Färniss	187
8	Egalitarian Social Organization: The Case of the Mbendjele BaYaka Jerome Lewis	219
9	Hunter-Gatherer Childhoods in the Congo Basin Barry S. Hewlett	245
10	Multiangular Identities among Congo River Basin Forest Peoples Stephanie Rupp	277
11	Interethnic Relationships between Pygmies and Farmers Kiyoshi Takeuchi	299
12	Forest Conservation and Indigenous Peoples in The Congo Basin: New Trends toward Reconciliation between Global Issues and Local Interest Mitsuo Ichikawa	321
	List of Contributors	343
	Index	345