

Contents

List of contributors	ix
Acknowledgements	xiv
Introduction: why traditional Chinese philosophy still matters	1
MING DONG GU
PART I
The relevance of Confucian ethics for our time	17
1 Confucian role ethics: a challenge to the ideology of individualism	19
ROGER T. AMES
2 A theory of truthfulness (cheng 诚) in classical Confucian philosophy	38
CHUNG-YING CHENG
3 Why does the Book of Rites still matter in contemporary China? A case study of the relevance of Tian Di 天地 to the age of globalization	55
XINZHONG YAO
4 Moral luck and moral responsibility: Wang Yangming on the Confucian problem of evil	68
YONG HUANG

PART II

Mutual empowerment of Chinese and Western thought 83

- 5 Responsive virtuosity: a classical Chinese Buddhist contribution to contemporary conversations of freedom 85
PETER D. HERSHOCK

- 6 Translatability, strangification, and common intelligibility: taking Chinese landscape painting and philosophical texts as examples 102
VINCENT SHEN

- 7 Confucian exegesis, hermeneutic theory, and comparative thought 118
ON-CHO NG

- 8 Spontaneity and reflection: the Dao of somaesthetics 133
RICHARD SHUSTERMAN

PART III

Modern illuminations of ancient wisdom 145

- 9 Chinese philosophy's hybrid identity 147
JOHN MAKEHAM

- 10 Knowing, feeling, and active ignorance: methodological reflection on the study of Chinese philosophy 167
CARINE DEFOORT

- 11 Why the Yijing 易經 (Classic of Changes) matters in an age of globalization 184
RICHARD J. SMITH

- 12 Understanding Zen/Chan in the context of globalization: a new view on the nature of enlightenment 203
MING DONG GU

- Afterword: comments and reflections by an "outsider" 223
J. HILLIS MILLER

- Index* 231