

Table of Contents

Table of Cases	xi
Table of Treaties and other Instruments	xiii
List of Abbreviations	xvii
1. Introduction: The Sociological Dimension of International Law	1
I. An Invitation	1
II. The Sociological Perspective	3
III. Law, International Law, and Culture	9
IV. The Social Constructivist Approach in International Relations Theory	11
V. Methodology, Structure, and Outline	13
2. Sociological Theories: Regional and Global Trade Agreements	17
I. Introduction	17
II. The Sociology of International Economic Law	20
III. The Regulation of Regional Trade Agreements in the WTO Legal System	22
IV. Sociological Analysis of RTAs	31
V. Symbolic Interactionism as a Point of Departure	41
VI. Concluding Remarks	45
3. Collective Memory and International Law	46
I. Introduction	47
II. Collective Memory	48
III. International Law and Collective Memory	52
IV. Germany's Collective Memory, EMU Law, and the EU's Legal Response during the Debt Crisis	58
V. Argentina's Collective Memory, the Calvo Doctrine, and Compliance with ICSID Awards	72
VI. Concluding Remarks	88
4. Social Identity, International Groups, and International Law	91
I. Introduction	91
II. Social Identity	93
III. Identity in International Relations	102
IV. Social Identity and International Law	104
V. Concluding Remarks	126

5. Diffusion of Norms and its Limits: Socio-Legal Fragmentation, Investment Tribunals, and Human Rights Law	128
I. Introduction	129
II. Socio-Cultural Factors, Foreign Investment, and International Investment law	130
III. International Legal Diffusion and Fragmentation: Investment Law and Human Rights Law	132
IV. Communities, Socio-Cultural Distance, and Legal Fragmentation	141
V. Dynamic Socio-Cultural Aspects and Future Diffusion of Human Rights Norms	153
VI. Concluding Remarks	155
6. Deviance and Conformity with International Law	157
I. Introduction	158
II. Compliance and the Inter-Paradigm Debate	159
III. The Sociology of Deviance and International Social Control Mechanisms	163
IV. The Social Causes of International Deviance	168
V. Enhancing Compliance with International Law	178
VI. Concluding Remarks	183
7. Some Conclusions	185
Selected Bibliography	187
Index	215