
Contents

List of Shortcuts	11
Preface	13
I. Introduction	15
1. The scope, structure and method of the book	15
2. The main areas of focus of the book	21
II. The bridge between the law of obligations and animal ethics	25
1. Man and animal – a philosophical and ethical background	25
2. Animal “personhood”	28
2.1. Animal ethics – modern approaches for reforming animal law	28
2.2. Animals as subjects or objects of law?	30
2.3. The actual position of animals versus their legal status	35
2.4. Ownership of an animal in the Polish and German Civil Codes	36
2.5. Animals’ legal position with reference to the subject of this book	40
3. Where are we now in protecting animals?	43
3.1. Animal law in the EU	43
3.2. Is there a need to protect animals in a European perspective?	47
3.3. Is there a need to protect animals in a global perspective?	52
3.4. Correlation between local traditions, culture and animal protection	56
3.5. The problem of strays as an example of how local traditions and culture determine levels of animal protection – comparative remarks	60

III. Contracts aimed at the transfer of property	65
1. General characteristic of contracts aimed at the transfer of property with reference to contracts with an animal as their object	65
2. Performance of contracts aimed at the transfer of property with reference to contracts having an animal as the object	72
2.1. General remarks	72
2.2. Consumer sale and related legal problems concerning B2B, B2C and C2C relations	74
2.3. Conclusion of contracts aimed at the transfer of property with reference to contracts having an animal as the object	80
2.3.1. Estimation of the price	80
2.3.2. Exchange of horses with a partial payment	82
2.3.3. Extortion in the sale of an animal	84
2.4. Applicability of specific types of sale contracts to animals	89
2.4.1. Animals as specific objects of sale on approval	89
2.4.2. Animals as specific objects of sale while reserving the right to repurchase	92
2.4.3. Animals as specific objects of sale with a pre-emptive right	95
2.5. Contracts aimed at the transfer of property with reference to animals other than a sale contract	95
2.5.1. Donation	95
2.5.2. Barter	99
2.5.3. Contracts of delivery of pre-contracted agricultural produce (umowa kontraktacji)	101
3. Results of the improper performance of contracts aimed at the transfer of property with reference to contracts having an animal as the object	102
3.1. Legal foundations of the seller's liability in connection with the sale of animals	102
3.2. The warranty regime with reference to animals as specific objects of obligations	105
3.2.1. Definition of a defect with reference to animals as specific objects of obligations	105
3.2.2. General overview of the buyer's warranty rights with reference to contracts aimed at the transfer of property of an animal	114
3.2.3. The applicability of seller's right to cure animals	118
3.2.4. Applicability of warranty rights to the continuous medical treatments of animals	123

3.2.5. Reduction in price and termination of contract with reference to contracts aimed at the transfer of property of an animal	125
3.2.6. Monetary damages and excessive costs with reference to exercising a warranty right in the case of animals as specific object of obligations	127
3.2.7. Animals as used goods?	131
3.2.8. Peculiarities of the sale of horses – the importance of pre-contractual information, medical examination and x-ray images as the basis for the horse's seller's liability	132
3.3. Applicability of the institution of guarantee as to the quality of the good to animals	140
3.4. Results of the improper performance of contracts aimed at the transfer of property of an animal other than the sale contract	141
3.4.1. Donation	141
3.4.2. Barter	143
3.4.3. Delivery of pre-contracted agricultural produce	144
IV. Service contracts	145
1. General characteristics of service contracts with reference to contracts having an animal as their object	145
1.1. General remarks	145
1.2. General characteristics of specific types of service contracts with an animal as their object	152
1.2.1. Commission contracts having an animal as their object	153
1.2.2. Agency contracts having an animal as their object . . .	157
1.2.3. Teaching/training contracts having an animal as their object	159
1.2.4. Safe-keeping contracts having an animal as its object .	167
1.2.5. Other service contracts having an animal as their object	170
2. Performance of service contracts with reference to contracts having an animal as their object	173
2.1. Commission contracts having an animal as their object . . .	173
2.2. Agency contracts having an animal as their object	180
2.3. Teaching/training contracts having an animal as their object .	191
2.4. Safe-keeping contracts having an animal as their object . . .	196
2.5. Other service contracts having an animal as their object . . .	201

3. Results of the improper performance of service contracts with reference to contracts having an animal as its object	206
3.1. Commission contracts having an animal as its object	206
3.2. Agency contracts having an animal as their object	211
3.3. Teaching/training contracts having an animal as their object .	219
3.4. Safe-keeping contracts having an animal as its object	225
3.5. Other service contracts having an animal as their object . . .	228
V. Contracts for the use of someone else's things	231
1. General characteristics of contracts for the use of someone else's things having an animal as their object	231
1.1. General remarks	231
1.2. Differentiation between lease contracts and tenancy contracts in reference to contracts having animals as their object	236
2. Performance of contracts for the use of someone else's things having an animal as their object	240
2.1. Performance of lease contracts and tenancy contracts in reference to contracts having animals as their subject	240
2.2. Performance of undefined/atypical contracts having the use of animals as their subject	246
2.3. Performance of loan for use contracts in reference to contracts having animals as their object	252
3. Results of the improper performance of contracts aimed at the transfer of property of things with reference to contracts having an animal as their object	255
3.1. Results of the improper performance of contracts in reference to lease and tenancy contracts having animals as their object	255
3.2. Results of the improper performance of contracts in reference to loan for use contracts having animals as their subject	259
VI. Final remarks	267
1. Conclusions in reference to the legal status of animals	267
2. Remarks de lege ferenda concerning animals in the Polish legal system (to the extent of private law)	269
References	277
Online resources	295

Legal acts and public documents	299
Court rulings	305
Polish court rulings	305
German court rulings	306
Rulings of the European Court of Justice	307
European Parliament petitions	309