
Content

| | |
|--|----|
| Preface | 15 |
| Introduction | 25 |
| Praxis | 32 |
| Vocabulary | 35 |
| Meaning | 44 |
| Relations | 47 |
| Contested issues | 48 |
| Reality | 50 |
| Schemes | 51 |
| Abstraction and reification | 52 |
| Substance | 52 |
| Subject | 53 |
| Individual | 55 |
| Structures, models, and epistemology | 57 |
| Series, structures, networks | 58 |
| Relational models | 59 |
| Epistemological awareness | 61 |
| HabitusAnalysis—the present book | 63 |
| 1 Substances and relations—premises in epistemology | 69 |
| 1.1 Fieldwork in philosophy | 71 |
| 1.1.1 The scientific view | 71 |
| French epistemology | 72 |
| German Neo-Kantianism | 74 |
| 1.1.2 Relations in society and language | 75 |
| Society | 78 |
| Language | 79 |

| | | |
|---------|--|-----|
| | Habitus | 79 |
| 1.1.3 | Language and other symbolic relations | 80 |
| | Structure | 80 |
| | Use | 81 |
| | Missing links | 84 |
| 1.1.4 | Sociological perspectives | 85 |
| 1.2 | Praxeological relationism | 87 |
| 1.2.1 | Relation and perception | 89 |
| 1.2.1.1 | On substantialism | 90 |
| | A remark on substantialism and positivism | 90 |
| | Critique of substantialism—Cassirer | 96 |
| 1.2.1.2 | On relationism | 98 |
| | Representation and relation—Cassirer | 98 |
| | Relations and series—Cassirer | 101 |
| | Objective structures—Levi-Strauss | 107 |
| 1.2.2 | Structures, habitus, models—Bourdieu | 109 |
| 1.2.2.1 | Spaces of positions | 110 |
| | Space | 111 |
| | Fields | 112 |
| 1.2.2.2 | ... and of dispositions | 113 |
| | Two-way relation | 113 |
| | Dispositions, tastes, and styles | 114 |
| 1.2.2.3 | Habitus, dispositions, and the generation of praxis | 116 |
| | Habitus | 116 |
| | Dispositions and experiences | 117 |
| | The relations of habitus—the woodchopper 1 | 119 |
| | Praxeological series | 122 |
| 1.2.2.4 | Schemes, models, and the perception of praxis | 124 |
| | Schemes | 124 |
| | Social praxis in general | 127 |
| | Scientific observation | 127 |
| 1.3 | Excursus: Substantializing Bourdieu | 131 |
| | The essence of chopping—the woodchopper 2 | 132 |
| | Chopping Bourdieu's theory | 133 |
| | Chopping Bourdieu's critique | 136 |

| | |
|---|------------|
| 2 Subject, object, mind and matter—coordinates of praxeology | 139 |
| 2.1 Objectivism, subjectivism, praxeology—Bourdieu's third way | 143 |
| 2.1.1 Objectivism and subjectivism—Bourdieu's critique | 143 |
| Social physics | 144 |
| Semiology | 145 |
| No dichotomies, but habitus | 148 |
| 2.1.2 Subject, object, and perception—Bourdieu's sources | 149 |
| Marx | 149 |
| Cassirer | 151 |
| 2.1.3 Logic of praxis, objectification, and embodiment— Bourdieu's transformations | 153 |
| Social knowledge | 154 |
| Relation in between—logic of praxis | 155 |
| Objectified structures | 157 |
| Embodied structures | 158 |
| 2.2 Matter and mind—things and signs | 162 |
| 2.2.1 Schemes of perception and experience—narrowing the focus | 162 |
| Against a dualism of mind and matter | 162 |
| Cognition—non-intlectualist | 164 |
| 2.2.2 Bourdieu's vocabulary in relation to meaning | 165 |
| Concepts and patterns | 165 |
| Possible misunderstandings | 167 |
| 2.2.3 Social construction of meaning | 168 |
| Dispositional activities | 168 |
| Social meaning | 169 |
| 2.2.4 Meaning as social operator | 170 |
| Symbol | 170 |
| Polysemy, metaphor, homology | 172 |
| Core meaning? | 173 |
| Sign | 175 |
| 2.2.5 A twofold reality | 175 |
| Telling things | 176 |
| Practical signs | 177 |
| 2.3 Objects and Subjects—structures and actors | 180 |
| 2.3.1 Perspectives and relations—narrowing the focus | 180 |
| First-order relations | 180 |
| Two-way relation | 181 |

| | | |
|---------|--|-----|
| 2.3.2 | Bourdieu's vocabulary on object and subject | 183 |
| | Concepts and patterns | 183 |
| | Ambivalences—Cassirer and Marx | 184 |
| 2.3.3 | Historical action | 186 |
| | The source of historical action | 186 |
| | Social subjectivity—perception and construction | 188 |
| | Common sense—collective objectification | 189 |
| | Symbolic struggle—dispute and misrecognition | 190 |
| | Social objectivity—positions and dispositions | 191 |
| | Social perspectivity—positions and views | 192 |
| 2.4 | Subject, object, praxis—desiderata for praxeology | 194 |
| 2.4.1 | A concluding remembrance | 194 |
| 2.4.2 | Productive tensions | 195 |
| 2.4.3 | Deep structure of praxis: a diagram | 197 |
| | Desiderata | 201 |
| 3 | Meaning as praxis—language and signs | 203 |
| | Pragmatique sociologique | 204 |
| | Bourdieu's work on meaning | 206 |
| 3.1 | The scientific field: language, system and meaning | 208 |
| 3.1.1 | Language—the longue durée and the praxeological | |
| | Kondratiev wave | 210 |
| | Bourdieu's framing of the issue | 210 |
| | Plato dies hard—knowledge as reflection | 212 |
| | Sophists too—rhetoric, culture, and ordinary language | 215 |
| | And likewise Materialists—Marx and sociolinguistics | 220 |
| | A synthesis on symbolic power | 223 |
| 3.1.2 | Bourdieu and linguistics—an intricate relationship | 226 |
| 3.1.2.1 | Philosophocracy—Plato on the academic field | 227 |
| 3.1.2.2 | Language as langue —linguistic communism | 229 |
| | Saussure | 229 |
| | Chomsky | 230 |
| | Fodor and Katz | 231 |
| | Foucault | 231 |
| | And Austin? | 232 |
| 3.1.2.3 | Language as society—communist linguists | 234 |
| | Sartre and the biographical method | 235 |
| | Marxism and class interest | 235 |

| | | |
|---------|---|-----|
| 3.1.3 | Language as praxis—praxeological relations | 236 |
| 3.1.3.1 | Bourdieu's model of interpretation | 237 |
| | Meaning | 237 |
| | Fields | 237 |
| | Production | 238 |
| 3.1.3.2 | Praxeological translation of linguistics | 240 |
| | Translation | 240 |
| | Legitimacy | 241 |
| | Meaning | 242 |
| 3.1.3.3 | Praxeological parameters for the approach | |
| | to meaning | 243 |
| | Habitus and power | 244 |
| | Relations, praxis, struggles | 245 |
| 3.2 | Fieldwork on meaning | 249 |
| 3.2.1 | Bourdieu's studies on meaning | 249 |
| 3.2.1.1 | Kabylia | 249 |
| | Structuralist socio-semiotics | 249 |
| | Practical logic | 250 |
| 3.2.1.2 | Heidegger | 256 |
| | Polyphonic discourse | 256 |
| | Comments on content | 259 |
| | Comments on form | 260 |
| | Comments on production | 261 |
| 3.2.1.3 | Religion | 262 |
| | Religious demand and message | 262 |
| | The new liturgy | 267 |
| | A note on form and content | 271 |
| 3.2.1.4 | Body-language | 272 |
| | Mouth, trap and class | 273 |
| | The lazy South | 273 |
| 3.2.2 | Critics | 275 |
| | John R. Searle | 276 |
| | John B. Thompson | 277 |
| | James Collins | 281 |
| | William Hanks | 283 |
| | Hans-Herbert Kögler | 285 |
| 3.2.3 | On Bourdieu's study of meaning—concluding remarks | 289 |

| | | |
|---------|---|-----|
| 3.3 | The meaning of meaning | 293 |
| 3.3.1 | Boundaries in theory | 294 |
| | Listening and speaking—decoding | 294 |
| | Interpretative shortcuts—symbolism | 295 |
| 3.3.2 | Epistemological premises focused on meaning | 296 |
| | Two kinds of series | 296 |
| | Difference, position, and meaning | 298 |
| | Similarity, fields, and meaning | 300 |
| | Word or proposition? | 302 |
| 3.3.3 | Social structures, habitus, and meaning production | 303 |
| | Structured production—no repertoires | 304 |
| | Value—not abstraction | 304 |
| 3.3.3.1 | Structures—objective value / imposing value | 305 |
| | Social space: positional value | 306 |
| | Linguistic market: exchange value | 307 |
| | Fields of praxis: use value | 309 |
| 3.3.3.2 | Habitus—embodied value/knowing how to value | 311 |
| | Linguistic habitus | 312 |
| | Interest, expression, and capacity | 312 |
| | Dispositions and fields—knowing how | 314 |
| 3.3.3.3 | Relation—contesting values | 315 |
| | Linguistic exchange, power, and struggle | 316 |
| | Content, naming, and pretended neutrality | 317 |
| | Labor of language, crises, and style | 319 |
| | Demand and supply | 321 |
| 3.3.3.4 | The theoretical program | 322 |
| | Conclusions and perspectives | 327 |
| | Language | 328 |
| | Critics: interpretation and power | 328 |
| | Thompson: interpretation | 329 |
| | Hanks: language, power, and a structural toolkit | 329 |
| | Issues: meaning, power, and reality | 330 |
| | Meaning as practical interpretation | 330 |
| | The power of language | 332 |
| | Labor of language | 333 |
| | Classification and judgment | 335 |
| | Dispositions and social reality | 335 |

| | |
|---|---------|
| Habitus, fields, and space | 336 |
| Critics: meaning and habitus | 337 |
| Issues: positions, dispositions, and meaning | 338 |
| Fields, linguistic market, and semantics | 338 |
| Habitus, dispositions, and the logic of networks | 340 |
| Perspectives for modeling and theory | 343 |
| The final goal: models | 344 |
| Habitus and practical sense | 344 |
| Network | 346 |
| Fields and social Space | 346 |
| The intermediate goal: theory | 348 |
| The way forward: future work | 351 |
| Appendix: Religion and social movements | 353 |
| Religion in Bourdieu | 353 |
| Social movement research | 359 |
| On Bourdieu's vocabulary (tables) | 365 |
| Bibliography | 371 |
| Index | 393 |