

Contents

Author's note	vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Introduction	1
Religion and globalization	4
Japanese religions within globalization	6
1 The risk of cultural bias: definitions and phases	11
Globalization, cultural bias, and the definition of religion	11
Cultural bias and phases of globalization	17
2 'One true world religion among many others'?	24
Global identities and religious pluralism	24
Japanese religions and inclusivism	29
Japanese religions and exclusivism	35
3 Shaping new glocal identities	40
Glocalization leaning to external sources	40
Glocalization leaning to 'native' sources	47
4 Glocalization, cultural chauvinism, and resistance to change	55
Glocalization and cultural chauvinism	55
Resistance to change and cultural chauvinism	64
5 Glocalization overseas	69
Virtual bridges, glocalization, and cultural chauvinism	69
6 Carriers of globalization	83
Japanese religions' influence over other religions and cultures	83

7	Border negotiation in global society (I): religion and politics	98
	Japanese religions and politics	100
8	Border negotiation in global society (II): religion, education, and science	115
	Japanese religions and public education	115
	Japanese religions and science	121
9	Addressing global problems	129
	Global problems and religious institutions	131
	Global problems and religious NGOs/NPOs	135
	Conclusion	142
	Notes	150
	Bibliography	157
	Index	184