

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
1 Pointing: A Foundational Building Block of Human Communication Sotaro Kita	1
2 Pointing Is the Royal Road to Language for Babies George Butterworth	9
3 Chimpanzees' "Pointing": Another Error of the Argument by Analogy? Daniel J. Povinelli, Jesse M. Bering, and Steve Giambrone	35
4 From Index-Finger Extension to Index-Finger Pointing: Ontogenesis of Pointing in Preverbal Infants Nobuo Masataka	69
5 Pointing Toward Two-Word Speech in Young Children Susan Goldin-Meadow and Cynthia Butcher	85
6 Pointing by Hand in "Neapolitan" Adam Kendon and Laura Versante	109

7	How to Point in Zinacantán John B. Haviland	139
8	Why Pointing With the Index Finger Is Not a Universal (in Sociocultural and Semiotic Terms) David Wilkins	171
9	Pointing as Situated Practice Charles Goodwin	217
10	Pointing and Placing Herbert H. Clark	243
11	From Pointing to Reference and Predication: Pointing Signs, Eyegaze, and Head and Body Orientation in Danish Sign Language Elisabeth Engberg-Pedersen	269
12	Pointing and Morality in Chicago David McNeill	293
13	Interplay of Gaze, Hand, Torso Orientation, and Language in Pointing Sotaro Kita	307
	Author Index	329
	Subject Index	335