

Contents

Foreword by Andrei Rogatchevski	9
Acknowledgements	11
1. Introduction	13
1.1 The Goal and the Scope of the Study	13
1.2 Review of Research Literature on the Subject	20
1.3 Theoretical and Methodological Background of the Project	22
2. Solzhenitsyn as a Writer and a Witness	27
2.1 The Style and Genre of Solzhenitsyn's camp-related Literature	29
One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich	31
The First Circle	46
The Gulag Archipelago	55
2.2 The Experience behind the Text: Camp Literature and Witness Literature	62
2.3 The Reception of Solzhenitsyn's Camp Literature	74
2.4 Chapter Conclusion	97
3. Solzhenitsyn's Oeuvre between Aesthetics and Politics	103
3.1 Introduction to Methods and Contextualization	104
3.2 Anti-communism: Solzhenitsyn at the Heart of the Cold War	109
Solzhenitsyn's Reception during the Cold War	111
Solzhenitsyn in Brandt's Germany	113
Solzhenitsyn in 1970's Britain and the US	131
Solzhenitsyn's Late Cold War Reception	147
Solzhenitsyn's Reception upon the Collapse of European Communism	168

3.3	Solzhenitsyn in Revisionist Debates	188
	Introduction	188
	Revisionism in Solzhenitsyn's Work and Reception	190
	Solzhenitsyn and World War II	190
	Solzhenitsyn and Russian Nationalism	199
	Solzhenitsyn and "the Jews"	204
3.4	Political Christianity	231
3.5	Comparative Chapter Conclusion	236
4.	Solzhenitsyn in History	241
4.1	Solzhenitsyn and Historiography	242
4.2	Solzhenitsyn and Memory Culture in East and West	250
4.3	Chapter Conclusion	257
	Conclusions	259
	The Ethic	260
	The Political	263
	The Aesthetic	265
	Concluding Thoughts	267
	Bibliography	271