

CONTROLLING ANGER

THE SOCIOLOGY OF GISU VIOLENCE

Suzette Heald

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY PRESS

for the INTERNATIONAL AFRICAN INSTITUTE, London
MANCHESTER AND NEW YORK

Distributed exclusively in the USA and Canada by St. Martin's Press

CONTENTS

List of tables	vi
List of figures	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
A note on the people and language	x
Introduction	1
Part 1 The problem	15
1 A reputation for violence	17
2 Differing standards: homicide statistics and methodological implications	33
Part 2 The accusational nexus	55
3 On being a man: the nature of Gisu experience	57
4 Some sources of tension: work, wealth and reputation	79
5 Witches and wastrels	106
Part 3 Kinship, community and cosmology	135
6 The agnatic charter	137
7 Land without loyalty	153
8 Community and conflict	175
9 Excess and restraint in the morality of kinship	200
1: Ancestors, morality and kinship	203
2: Joking and avoidance: another reading of kinship	216
Part 4 Community in the making	227
10 We are the Gisu government: the new movements	229
11 Mafias in Africa	243
Epilogue	255
Appendix 1: The homicide survey	263
Glossary	278
References	282
Index	290

TABLES

1	Ugandan homicide rates, 1960 and 1963	page 31
2	The statistical base	37
3	Mean annual rate of death from homicide in rural Bugisu, 1964-68	37
4	Weapons used in 375 homicide cases, 1960-66	38
5	Comparative homicide statistics, 1948-54 and 1960-66	40
6	Court sentences, 1960-66	42
7	Attributed motives in 308 court cases where men killed men, 1960-66	46
8	Sources of regular income for 44 men in Busoba sub-county, 1966	88
9	Distribution of land by age	93
10	Distribution of wives by age	93
11	Distribution of male homicide victims and accused by 5-year age groups	108
12	Rate per 100,000 for male victims and accused of homicide in Bugisu district	109
13	Relationship by generation of victims to accused where both men, 1960-66	109
14	The effects of wifelessness on eventual marriage chances	116
15	The homicide survey	267
15.1	Age	267
15.2	Marital status	267
15.3	Proportion of bachelors by age	267
15.4	Landholdings	267
15.5	Education	268
15.6	Number of members of lineage segment living within ½ mile of house	268
15.7	Length of residence in area	268
15.8	Characteristics of victims by category	269
15.9	Characteristics of accused by category	269

FIGURES

1	Bugisu District, Uganda	page xii
2	Gisu homestead	18
3	Circumcision display dancing	64
4	Smearing rite	66
5	Circumcision operation	68
6	Profiles of male victims and accused by age	108
7	Gisu warrior	157
8	House site plan of the vicinage of Wafaxale	188
9	Skeleton genealogy for the kindred of Wafaxale	189
10	The transmission of powers	206