

CONTENTS

PREFACE xiii

PART I INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF GROUPS 1

CHAPTER ONE GROUPS AND HUMAN BEHAVIOR 5

What Is a Group? Definitions and Boundaries 6

Types of Social Aggregations 6, A Definition of Groups as "Fuzzy Sets" 8, A Fuzzy Definition of Membership 9, Groups as Real and Not Real 10, A Static/Dynamic Difference 11

A Conceptual Framework for the Study of Groups 12

The Main Classes of Variables 12, A Model of Effects by and on Groups 15

A Micro-View of the Interaction Process 17

CHAPTER TWO BACKGROUND FOR THE STUDY OF GROUPS 20

An Outline of Past Research on Groups 21

Some Major Trends in Group Research 23

Experiential Groups 23, Some Polarities 23, Shifts in Topical Emphasis 24

The Role of Theory, and the Consequences of its Absence 25

CHAPTER THREE METHODS FOR THE STUDY OF GROUPS 28

Overview: Methods as Opportunities and Limitations 29

Strategic Level Issues: Choosing a Setting for a Study 31

Design Level Issues: What Will You Compare and What Will You Learn? 34
Correlation versus Comparison 34, Form of Validity 36
Operational Level Issues: Measuring, Manipulating and Controlling Variables 37

CHAPTER FOUR A TYPOLOGY OF GROUPS 41

Natural Groups 41
Concocted Groups 44
Quasi-Groups Used for Research 47

PART II GROUPS AS TASK PERFORMANCE SYSTEMS 51

CHAPTER FIVE A TYPOLOGY OF TASKS 53

Past Efforts to Classify Tasks and Model Group Productivity 54
Early Task Distinctions 54, Shaw's Classification of Group Tasks 55, Hackman's Task Types and Product Dimensions 56, Steiner's Task Types and Models of Group Productivity 56, Laughlin's Group Task Classification 59, Summary of Task Classification Attempts 60
A Circumplex Model of Group Task Types 60

CHAPTER SIX INTELLECTIVE TASKS: SOLVING PROBLEMS THAT HAVE CORRECT ANSWERS (TASK TYPE 3) 67

Early Studies of Group Problem-Solving 68
Laughlin's Studies on Intellectual Tasks Using Social Decision Schemes 70
Early Studies of Accuracy of Group Judgments 72
Studies of Judgment Accuracy Using Quasi-Groups 73
Group Problem-Solving Under Mediated Communication 77
Summary 77

CHAPTER SEVEN DECISION-MAKING TASKS: DEVELOPING GROUP CONSENSUS ON ISSUES THAT DO NOT HAVE CORRECT ANSWERS (TASK TYPE 4) 79

Risks, Choices, and Polarization in Group Decision-Making 80
Mock Juries and Social Decision Schemes 83
Jury Research and the Legal System 86

CHAPTER EIGHT COGNITIVE CONFLICT TASKS: RESOLVING CONFLICTS OF VIEWPOINT WITHIN THE GROUP (TASK TYPE 5) 88

Social Judgment Theory 89
Other Conflict-of-Viewpoint Tasks 93

CHAPTER NINE MIXED-MOTIVE TASKS: RESOLVING CONFLICTS OF INTEREST AMONG GROUP MEMBERS (TASK TYPE 6) 95

Bargaining and Negotiation Tasks 97
Dilemma and Mixed-Motive Games 101
Other Mixed-Motive Tasks 106
Coalitions and the Allocation of Rewards 109
Summary 113

CHAPTER TEN CONTESTS AND PERFORMANCES: GROUP PERFORMANCE ON COMPETITIVE AND NONCOMPETITIVE PHYSICAL TASKS (TASK TYPES 7 AND 8) 114

Contests: Group Tasks Involving Competitive Physical Performance (Task Type 7) 114
Performances: Group Tasks Involving Physical Performances Against External/Absolute/Noncompetitive Standards (Task Type 8) 120

CHAPTER ELEVEN PLANNING AND CREATIVITY: GROUP PERFORMANCE OF TASKS REQUIRING GENERATION OF PLANS AND IDEAS (TASK TYPES 1 AND 2) 125

Planning Tasks: Generating Plans to Carry Out Actions (Task Type 1) 126
Brainstorming and Group Creativity (Task Type 2) 130
The Hackman-Morris Process Enhancing Approach 133
Summary Variables 133, Input Factors 134, Not What Is but What Could Be 135

PART III GROUPS AS SYSTEMS FOR STRUCTURING SOCIAL INTERACTION 137

CHAPTER TWELVE GROUP INTERACTION PROCESS: THE ACTING GROUP 139

- The Observation of Group Interaction 139
Bales's Interaction Process Analysis 140, Problems and Limitations 143, Decline and Resurgence 144
- The Morphology of Interaction: Regularities in the Pattern of Interaction over Members and Time 145
Distribution of Participation Among Members 145, Distribution of Interaction Among Categories (ofIPA) 147, Distribution of Interaction over Time 147, Phase Movement in Groups 152
- Basic Functions of the Group Interaction Process 153
Bales's Two-Process Schema 154, The Bion-Thelen Interaction Theory 154, Steiner's Analysis of Process 155, The Hackman-Morris Summary Variables 155, Hare's Four-Dimensional System 156
- Group Development: Patterns of Interaction over Sessions 158
- Some New Technology for Studying Interaction Process 162
Data Collection Technology 162, Data Analysis Techniques 163, Modelling Group Interaction Patterns 164

CHAPTER THIRTEEN THE COMMUNICATION PROCESS: EFFECTS OF RESTRICTIONS IN COMMUNICATION NETWORKS, MODALITIES AND STRATEGIES 166

- Studies of Communication Networks 167
- Nonverbal Aspects of Communication 170
Interpersonal Distance Zones 170, Functions of Some Key Features of Nonverbal Interaction 173, Concluding Comments 176
- Studies of Communication with Restricted Modalities 177
- Effects of Modifying Communication Strategies 182

CHAPTER FOURTEEN INTERPERSONAL ATTRACTION: THE ACQUAINTANCE PROCESS 185

- Factors Affecting Attraction among Strangers 186
Physical Attraction 186, Similarity 187, Complementarity of Needs 189, Theoretical Interpretations 189
- Factors Affecting Attraction among Interacting Pairs 190

- Moving Toward Permanence: Friendship, Romance, Marriage 192
Romantic Love 193, Marriage 194

CHAPTER FIFTEEN INTERPERSONAL INTERDEPENDENCE: SOCIAL INTERACTION AS EXCHANGE 196

- Interaction as Exchange 196
The Basic Matrix 197, Rewards, Costs, and Pay-offs 198, Behavior Sequencing under Mixed-Motive Conditions 199, Development of Norms 200, Comparison Levels, Satisfaction, and Dyad Stability 202
- Norms for Allocation of Rewards/Resources 203
Equity 203, Effort 205, Equality 206, Need 207
- Nonallocation Rules that Constrain Behavior in Groups 209
Keeping Commitments 209, Reciprocity 209, Mutual Responsiveness 210,
- Types of Resources in Social Exchange 211

CHAPTER SIXTEEN INTIMACY AND PRIVACY: THE DYNAMICS OF INTERACTION 214

- Social Penetration Theory: Development of Interpersonal Intimacy 215
- Privacy Regulation Theory: Control of Interpersonal Interaction 216
- Altman's Dialectic Theory of Social Relationships 218
The Dialectic Concept 218, The Concept of Change 219, Interpersonal Boundary Regulation 219, Stability and Change 221, Adaptation and Ideal States 221, Implications 222
- Levinger's Incremental Exchange Model 223

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN THE INFLUENCE PROCESS: EFFECTS OF INTERACTION ON GROUP MEMBERS 226

- Social Influence Effects on Learning and Performance 226
Social Facilitation and Inhibition by Audiences and Coactors 226, Models: Learning by Observation 228, Inactive Bystanders Helping in an Emergency 230
- Social Influence Effects on Attitudes, Perceptions, Judgments, and Decisions 231
Attitude Change 231, Perceptions and Judgments 233, Polarization Effects of Group Discussion: Normative and Informational Effects 235, Other Social Influence Effects 236

The Communication/Cohesion/Conformity Complex: The Festinger Program on Social Influence in Groups	237
Social Impact Theory: A Recent Integration	244

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN	INTERACTION AND GROUP STRUCTURE: INTERPERSONAL RELATIONS AND ROLE PATTERNS IN THE STANDING GROUP	246
-------------------------	---	------------

Differentiation of Roles in Groups	247
Groups as Role Systems	249
Basic Role System Concepts	249
Sources of Role Problems in Groups	251
The Leader Role and Leadership Behavior	254
Structure and Interaction in Natural Groups: Research on Families	256

REFERENCES	263
-------------------	------------

INDEX	279
--------------	------------