

Contents

List of illustrations	page ix
Acknowledgements	x
Note on citations in the text	xiii
List of abbreviations	xiv

Introduction: the contexts of the Social Science Association	1
--------------------------------------------------------------	---

PART I: POLITICS

1. The origins of the Social Science Association: legal reform, the reformation of juveniles, and the property of married women in 'the Age of Equipoise'	27
2. The Social Science Association and the structure of mid-Victorian politics	61
3. Organising the Social Science Association	85

PART II: REFORM

4. Liberalism divided and feminism divided: women and the Social Science Association	113
5. Transportation, reformation, and convict discipline: the Social Science Association and Victorian penal policy 1853–1871	143
6. Victorian socio-medical liberalism: the Social Science Association and state medicine	174

7. Labour and capital: the Social Science Association, trade unionism, and industrial harmony	201
8. The Social Science Association and middle-class education: secondary schooling, endowments, and professionalisation in mid-Victorian Britain	236
9. The Social Science Association and the making of social policy:	262
i. The Social Science Association and the mid-Victorian state	262
ii. The making of mid-Victorian social policy: Bentham, bureaucrats, and ideas	272
iii. Expertise and democracy: the Social Science Association and mid-Victorian political thought	278
PART III: SCIENCE
10. Social science in domestic context: popular science, sociology, and a 'science of reform'	293
11. Social science in comparative international context	321
PART IV: DECLINE
12. The decline of the Social Science Association: Liberal division, specialisation, and the end of Equipoise	349
Conclusion: The Social Science Association and social knowledge	368
Appendix I: The founders of the Social Science Association, 29 July 1857	378
Appendix II: Social Science Association Congresses, 1857-1884	382
Appendix III: Presidents of the Social Science Congresses, 1857-1884	383
Appendix IV: Departmental presidents, 1857-1884	384
Select bibliography	389
Index	420

Illustrations

- | | |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------|
| 1. 'Lord Brougham delivering the opening address in the Free-Church Assembly-Hall' (Edinburgh, 1863) (Illustrated London News , 24 Oct. 1863, vol. 43, 416). | page xvi |
| 2. 'Great gathering of working men in the Circus – Lord Brougham, Chairman, addressing the meeting' (Edinburgh, 1863) (Illustrated London News , 24 Oct. 1863, vol. 43, 416). | 70 |
| 3. 'Soirée of the Social Science Association at Westminster Hall' (London, 1862) (Illustrated London News , 21 June 1862, vol. 40, 631). | 74 |
| 4. 'Reception room of the Social Science Congress in the Guildhall, York' (1864) (Illustrated London News , 8 Oct. 1864, vol. 45, 352). | 92 |
| 5. 'The Social Science Congress at York: conversazione in the Assembly Rooms, Blake Street' (1864) (Illustrated London News , 8 Oct. 1864, vol. 45, 369). | 94 |
| 6. 'To the Temple of Fame' (Punch , 23 Oct. 1858, 167). | 106 |
| 7. 'The Old Real Reformer' (Punch , 22 Oct. 1859, 167). | 109 |
| 8. 'Lord Brougham opening the Social Science Congress at Sheffield' (1865) (Illustrated London News , 14 Oct. 1865, vol. 47, 368). | 178 |