

Contents

Notes on Contributors	vii
Preface	xi
1 Introduction: Through the Fog of War Pierre Purseigle	1
2 Generations and the Ruptures of 1918, 1945 and 1989 in Germany Mary Fullbrook	7
3 Times of Death: The Great War and Serbia's Twentieth Century John Paul Newman	25
4 Politicising Commemoration in Twentieth-century Latvia Geoffrey Swain	41
5 Pluralism and the Problem with Collective Memory: Japanese Peace and War Museums in a Comparative Context Aaron William Moore	61
6 Beyond Mental: Avant-garde Culture and War Stephen Forcer	85
7 Between Cultural Conflict and Cultural Contact: German Writers and Cultural Diplomacy in the Aftermath of the First World War Tara Windsor	109
8 The Haunting of Roland D.: Roland Dorgelès, Remembering the Dead, and the Long Aftermath of the Great War (1919–1940) Martin Hurcombe	129

9	Defining Deaths: Richard Titmuss's Problems of Social Policy and the Meaning of Britain's Second World War Dan Todman	149
10	Remembrance, Religion and Reconciliation after the Fall of the Soviet Union Gabriela Welch	169
11	Thinking about Silence Jay Winter	183
12	The Long Shadows and Mixed Modes of History: Concluding Reflections on the Aftermath and Legacies of War Tim Haughton and Nicholas Martin	199
	Bibliography	213
	Index	239