

Contents

Introduction — 1

Chapter 1

A Negative Approach to Normativity — 13

- 1.1 Social Pathologies as Kindler of Critique: Three Different Programmatic Views — 15
- 1.2 Vulnerability and the Normative Experience of Injustice — 27
- 1.3 Some Preliminary Issues: Psychologization, Culturalization, and Teleology — 33

Chapter 2

A Post-Metaphysical Moral Grammar: The Struggle for Recognition — 36

- 2.1 Honneth's Hegel: An Intersubjective Social Ontology — 37
- 2.2 'I' and 'me': Mead's Concept of Practical Identity — 50
- 2.3 Disrespect as Misrecognition and Conflict — 60
- 2.4 A Formal Conception of Ethical Life: An Anthropological Justification — 69
  - 2.4.1 Love and Self-Confidence — 76
  - 2.4.2 Respect and Self-Respect — 82
  - 2.4.3 Esteem and Self-Esteem — 85
- 2.5 Some Open Issues: Recognition, Subject-Formation, and Social Ontology — 87

Chapter 3

Reification and the Antecedence of Recognition — 90

- 3.1 Some Premises: Visibility, Authenticity, and Mimesis — 92
- 3.2 Reification as Forgetfulness of Recognition — 98
- 3.3 The Priority of Recognition — 107
  - 3.3.1 Recognition as Apperception of Human Features — 112
  - 3.3.2 A Triangular Relationship with the World — 114
  - 3.3.3 Self-Recognition as Inner Proximity — 115
- 3.4 Some Open Issues: Ontology or Normativity, Recognition or Identification — 117

Chapter 4

Freedom's Right* and the 'Historical Turn' — 121

- 4.1 Ethical Life as Place of and for Freedom — 123
  - 4.1.1 Justice as Non-Discursive Justification — 127
  - 4.1.2 Overlapping and Noncoincidence of Ethical Spheres and Practices — 132

4.2	Surplus of Validity: from Interaction to Principles —	135
4.2.1	The Unavoidability of Moral Experiences —	139
4.2.2	Between Norms and Facts —	143
4.2.3	Justification, Validity, and Progress —	149
4.3	Being with Oneself in the Other: Social Freedom in Modern Societies —	153
4.3.1	Normative Reconstruction as Critical Method —	155
4.3.1.1	Three Modes of Freedom —	161
4.3.2	The Spheres of Social Freedom —	171
4.3.2.1	Personal Relationships —	173
4.3.2.2	The Market (Society) —	178
4.3.2.3	Democratic Public and Constitutional Democracy —	186
4.3.3	Some Open Issues: Immanent Critique, Recognition, and the Third —	196

Chapter 5

Recognition: from Affirmation to Mutual Authorization — 204

5.1	“Grounding Recognition”: Response, Actualization, and Progress —	205
5.2	“Recognition as Ideology”: Is there a Way Out? —	214
5.3	Recognition: from Affirmation to Authorization —	220
5.3.1	One Word, Different Concepts —	221
5.3.2	An Attempt at Harmonization —	234
5.4	Some Open Issues: A Spatial Account of Recognition —	246
5.5	Sediments of Reconstruction —	249

Chapter 6

Recognition between Actuality and Potentiality — 256

6.1	Interpersonal Recognition: Four Different Ideas —	257
6.2	What is Recognition? —	270
6.3	A Detrascendentalized Account: Limitation and We-Structures —	276
6.4	A Demanding Concept: Sketches for a Generative Account —	282
6.5	Back to Hegel: Recognition and Forgiveness —	284
6.5.1	Guilt as Finitude and Being-For-Others —	287
6.5.2	Confession and Forgiveness, Acknowledgment, and Mutual Recognition —	292
6.6	Conclusion: Generativity as Critical Criterion —	299

Bibliography — 309

Works by Axel Honneth —	309
Other works —	311

Index of Subjects — 324

