

Table of contents

Cosmin-Ștefan Dogaru

Communicators, audiences, and strategies: What can we learn from past experiences and to what extent can they be useful today? An Introduction 9

Dobrinka Parusheva

Visual representation of politics in Bulgaria, end of the nineteenth and early twentieth century 23

Joan Pubill Brugués

The birth of the counter-revolutionary ethos: Action Française and the strategy to attract a workerist audience through an anti-parliamentary discourse (1902–1914) 53

Tito Forcellese

Mussolini's political speeches in parliament: Tactics and propaganda from liberal democracy to fascist dictatorship (1921–1924) 83

Peter Heyrman

Backbone of the nation? Political discourses on small and medium-sized enterprise in Belgium, 1880–1985 101

Vicki Howard

“We are willing to take their money”: Southern department store managers and segregation, 1955–1961 133

Tomasz Pudłocki

“Propaganda is much more difficult in countries with older and higher cultures. [...] England is particularly difficult terrain”: Poland's public relations in Great Britain and the United States, 1918–1939 161

Irina Nastasă-Matei

Cultural exchanges and soft power between Romania and Germany during the “short” twentieth century: An overview 183

Volume editor	205
Notes on contributors	207